

Quiz Inquiry Halted; Other Practices Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), turning off a House investigation of quiz show rigging, said Friday Congress should pass new laws to assure program honesty and take a hard look at other channels of television activity.

Van Doren Supporters Lose Plea

NEW YORK (AP)—A student appeal to Columbia University to reinstate Charles Van Doren as assistant professor of English was turned down Friday.

Van Doren's resignation was accepted at the school earlier this week after he told a congressional committee he had been implicated in the rigging of the "Twenty-One" television show.

Columbia students staged a rally on Van Doren's behalf Thursday night, then followed it up Friday by presenting a petition to Columbia President Grayson Kirk.

Kirk was quoted as telling the students that Van Doren's resignation had been carefully considered "and the case is now closed, and that there would be no further comment."

France Says Import Curbs To Be Lifted

PARIS (AP)—France pledged itself Friday to end soon all forms of discrimination against goods from the dollar zone.

It thus lined itself with Great Britain, which earlier this week lifted import curbs on a long list of goods from the United States.

Thursday, France followed by lifting quotas on about 200 items.

Finance Minister Antoine Pinay, presenting the nation's 1960 budget in the National Assembly, promised to do more.

"U.S. aid permitted European recovery," he reminded the deputies. "Equity, if not gratitude, requires that all measures of discrimination—which only the difficult postwar situation of Europe justified—should end."

Within two years, France, he promised, would remove all import quotas on industrial goods from the dollar zone and Europe. This would be done, he said, "in a time which should not, in principle, exceed two years."

He did not say that the lifting of quantitative restrictions on imports would necessarily be accompanied by any slashing of tariff barriers but he said a general lowering of tariffs was a major preoccupation of the government.

The total national budget put expenditures at the equivalent of $13,060,000,000 and receipts at $11,840,000,000. The deficit will be made up by short-term loans, issue of treasury bonds and an estimated 5 percent increase in next year's national production.

Blamed For Dip In Tag Sales

HARRISBURG (AP)—Fish wardens and boatmen were singled out Friday for the reasons for the decline in Pennsylvania fish license sales the past four years.

Chairman William B. Curwood (D-Luzerne) of the House Fisheries Committee complained some wardens are discourteous and improperly trained for their jobs. He referred to them at one point as a "Gestapo."

Fish Commissioner John R. Grenoble of Carlisle put the increase in pleasure boating at the top of his list of reasons for the license declines.

These points were brought out in a free-wheeling public hearing by Curwood's committee, the final session in its investigation into the decline in license sales.

The committee also heard a progress report on the movement to have fishways installed in the Lower Susquehanna River Dam.

He has heard enough about this type of rigging, Harris said, but recently developed leads indicate other video practices require investigation.

"And we intend to give them such scrutiny," Harris said.

Stanton Testifies
The subcommittee recessed until next month after hearing Dr. Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, say there is always the danger of connivance in high-stake quiz shows.

Stanton said CBS is ready to help formulate new legislation aimed at deceit. But he repeatedly opposed any action resembling censorship.

"We believe that legislation is no cure-all for these ills and that the primary responsibility lies with the broadcasting industry itself," he said.

"CBS is moving forward in that conviction," Stanton said after announcing his network will issue general rules to assure that its TV programs are exactly what they appear to be.

Defends Action
Stanton defended his course of action at the time rumors of quiz show fixing first became current last year, although he conceded that "with benefit of hindsight, it is now clear that I should have gone further."

"I was completely unaware until irregularity in the quiz shows of Aug. 8, 1958," he said, "of any our network." On that date, Stanton continued, explicit charges of fixing on one independently produced program were brought to his attention.

"Sufficient supporting evidence was found within a week," he continued, "and the program was thrown off the air. Within six months, we had moved against three other quiz shows."

Other Areas
Harris did not say just what other areas his investigators would explore. While watching the quiz scandals unfold, they have also heard views critical of name-dropping plugs for one business on another sponsor's program, of the reliability and significance of program popularity ratings, of some types of commercials and of sponsors' influence on what television beams into American homes.

One fresh charge of skulduggery emerged at the windup of the quiz show hearings. Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex.) said the Federal Communications Commission had received complaints about "The Big Payoff," a daytime show, as far back as 1952.

Man Complains
Rogers had copies of an exchange of letters, in one of which the CC mentioned a complaint by Waldron Leonard of suburban Alexandria, Va., that viewers were being misled "as to the manner of selecting participants for the program."

At the time, "The Big Payoff" was carried on the National Broadcasting Co. network. It moved to CBS in March 1953 but was dropped several weeks ago.

The FCC told the subcommittee last month it has only dubious authority to crack down on quiz shows without getting into the field of censorship.

The FCC had no comment Friday on the complaint about "The Big Payoff."

Sues For $1,200,000
And in New York new troubles confronted the once popular "Twenty-One" show. Miss Ethel A. Davidson, a lawyer, filed a $1,200,000-suit against NBC, on whose network the program appeared.

Miss Davidson said she was fraudulently eliminated on Oct. 29, 1956 by Herbert Stempel, first of the big money winners and first to charge publicly that the show was fixed.

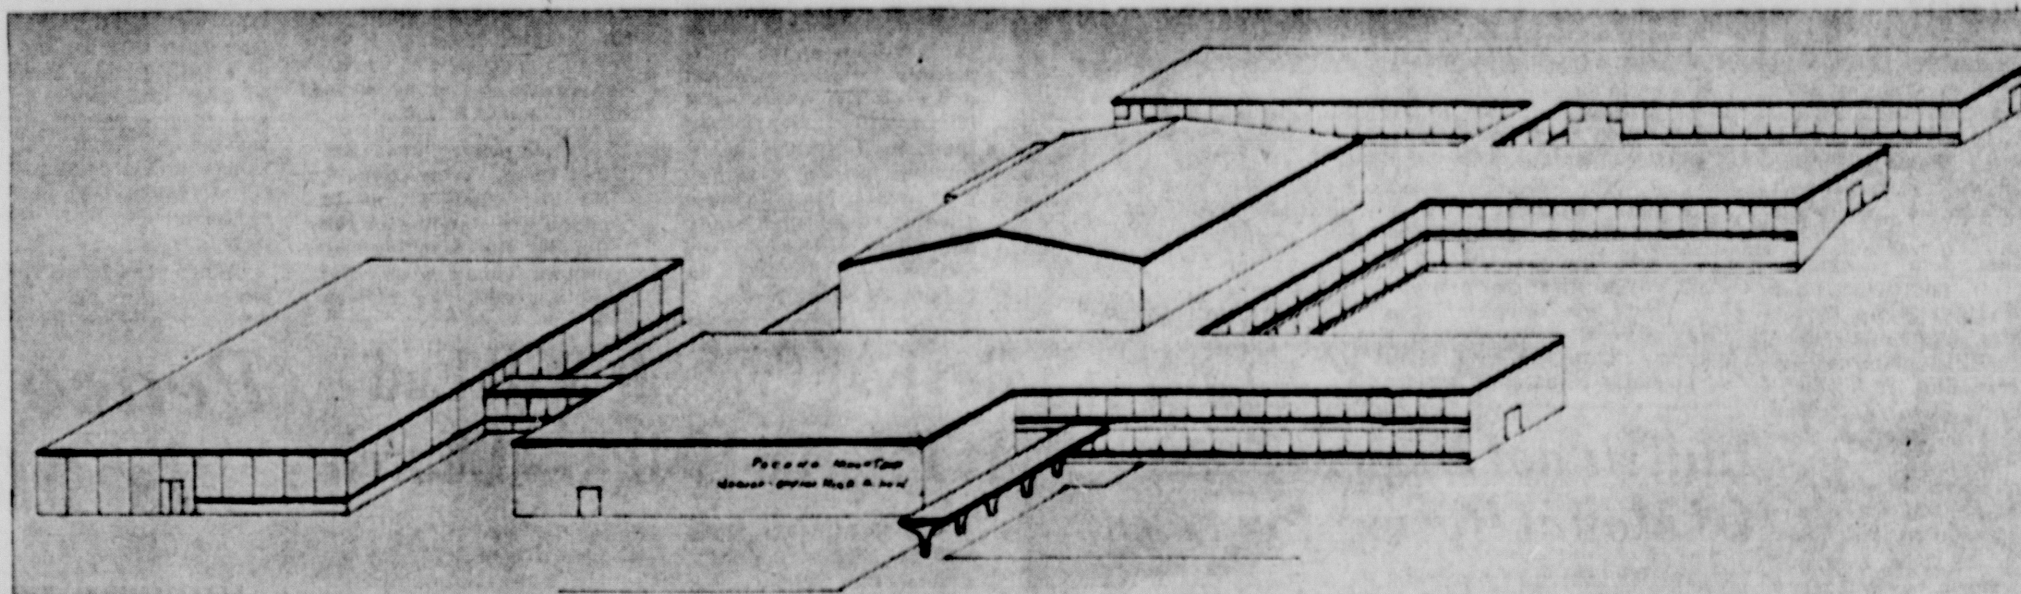

Miss Davidson argued in her New York State Court suit she had sufficient knowledge to win at least $100,000. She left the isolation booth with a $100 consolation award.

She also said she had been "unfairly subjected to intense humiliation and disgrace," subpoenaed before a New York grand jury probing quiz show rigging, and her reputation and income damaged.

She was defeated, and wrongly deprived of that money, she said, because Stempel "received answers to the questions" in advance.

Mountain Jointure Okays Plans For School Costing $1,900,000

ARCHITECT'S SKETCH of new Pocono Mountain Joint Junior-Senior High School is shown here. Plans for the building were approved last night by a meeting of the entire jointure board. The administration and auditorium section is shown in the immediate foreground, while the taller structure to its rear is the gymnasium. In the far rear are the

Bids To Be Opened On December 15

SWIFTWATER — The Pocono Mountain Area Joint School Board last night approved, subject to final approval by the state Health and Public Instruction Departments, the plans for a new junior-senior high school which the architect estimated, will cost nearly $1,900,000.

Approval of the plans climaxed six years of work on the project since the jointure was formed.

The plans, shown in their final stages to the joint board, call for 36 class rooms, four shops, an auditorium seating 764, a gymnasium seating 816 and a cafeteria seating about 400. The cafeteria will be used in three shifts during the lunch period, it was explained.

Dec. 15 Bids

Should the approval of the two departments be given, the advertisement for bids will be made as soon as possible and the bids will be opened Dec. 15, according to Arthur Stabler, representing the L. P. Kookan Co., architects.

The motion for the approval of the plans was carried unanimously by both the boards, and the individual members present at the meeting.

The only snag in the project at present is the needed approval by the supervisors of Pocono and Paradise Townships to erect a sewage disposal plant within the two townships.

Following the board's approval, the jointure's Building Authority also approved the plans.

Classrooms

Other details on the new school show the girders and braces in the gym and the auditorium will be of steel, while the balance for the shops and classrooms will be of reinforced concrete.

The major part of the classrooms will be located on the second floor of the building, which will grade out as the rear of the building is approached. The administration, business education and special education rooms will be on the first floor front of the building.

The shops will be located in a separate building from the main building, and will be connected with a covered areaway.

A rifle range will be constructed in the rear of the classrooms for the use of the students.

Widow, 83, Drops
Bid To Adopt
45-Year-Old Man

SOMERVILLE, N. J. (AP) — Somerset County Judge Samuel Chiaravalli said Friday the petition of an 83-year-old widow to adopt a 45-year-old man has been withdrawn by her attorney.

Chiaravalli said he received a letter from the lawyer, Harry P. Beldoin, last Wednesday which stated, in part, both parties have concluded it would be wise at this time to withdraw the petition.

The petition for adoption was filed by Beldoin for Mrs. Hattie S. Moore of Basking Ridge and John P. Szeniripunas, Jr., a roomer at her home.

Chiaravalli said he had planned to render an opinion refusing to permit the adoption Friday. No decision will be necessary now, he said, but the couple must file a dismissal with the court.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A U.N. fact-finding group reported Friday it failed to uncover proof of charges by Laos that it had been invaded by Communist troops from North Viet Nam.

Brother Given Role Opposite Janet Gaynor

ADD: It's a small world department.

The front page story in yesterday's Daily Record about Janet Gaynor's Broadway stage debut in "The Midnight Sun" by Joseph Hayes brought out the even more pertinent fact that playing opposite her will be the brother of a local woman, Mrs. Ted Cahn, of Queenin Road, Stroudsburg.

Martin Brooks, who will play the father in the story of emotional conflict between the neurotic mother and their three children in their 20s, has appeared locally.

Two years ago he played at the Pocono Playhouse with Mary Astor. He has also been in numerous TV Playhouse shows and in movies such as "I Am a Camera."

The play which opened in New Haven, will stop in Boston and Philadelphia before opening in New York on November 23.

Bomb Threat
Closes School

WILKES-BARRE (AP) — A report that a bomb has been planted in St. John the Evangelist School in Pittston, resulted in classes being suspended early Friday.

The bomb call was received by the Pittston Police Department. A check of the building proved the call a hoax.

High Court Continues To Weigh Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Steelworkers Union and the strike-bound industry watched and waited Friday while the Supreme Court continued to weigh the legality of a back-to-work order.

One small firm—the Laclede Steel Co. of Southern Illinois—reached a tentative agreement with the union.

But otherwise there were no discussions between the union and the industry it has kept shut down for 115 days.

Meet In Secret

The Supreme Court's nine justices conferred in secret for seven hours, but made no announcement of when a decision might come in the steel case.

There was no word when the court would hand down its ruling on a union appeal from the back-to-work order issued by a U.S. District Court Judge in Pittsburgh.

The justices began studying the case late Tuesday after hearing arguments from union and government lawyers.

The Federal Mediation Service scheduled no new bargaining talks.

Gas Supplier Asks Rate Hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. of Pittsburgh sought an increase Friday in its wholesale natural gas rates.

The firm asked the Federal Power Commission to approve a $1,645,000 annual increase effective Dec. 7. It would affect 28 utilities in Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, New Jersey, and Maryland serving 400,000 consumers.

32 Mountain Climbers Missing In Avalanche

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Thirty-two persons—three Japanese alpinists and 29 Nepalese porters—have vanished in an attempt to climb the forbidding face of Mt. Gauri Sankar.

Two runners brought word Friday that the expedition disappeared in mid-October, when avalanches swept the Himalayas in the region of that 23,340-foot peak, and no trace has been found in a three-week hunt.

Premier B. P. Koirala ordered all soldiers and guides in the area to carry on the search.

The 32 men were last reported camped at the 20,000-foot level and cut off by blizzards from a supply base 2,000 feet below them.

Avalanches about the same time carried away two women of an all-women climbing expedition on Mt. Cho Oyu, farther west.

Two themes dominated speculation here:

1. The entire expedition may have been buried by avalanches on Gauri Sankar, which marks the frontier of Nepal and Tibet about 35 miles west of 29,002-foot Mt. Everest, the world's highest mountain.

2. The men, finding tough going on the Nepalese slopes that experts have described as unclimbable, may have tried the Tibetan side and been arrested by Red Chinese troops.

One of the women lost on Mt. Cho Oyu, Mrs. Claude Kogan of France, declared in 1956 that Mt. Gauri Sankar could not be climbed from the Nepalese side, though it possibly could be from the Tibetan side.

Girl, 20, Glad To Give Up Her Brief Disguise As Boy

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Barbara Ann Malpass, who is 20 and has a wide, toothy smile, said Friday she's glad people found out she's a girl — not a boy.

"I don't want to think about that boy part anymore," she said.

Through some 25 states and at least four jails since leaving home at Glenmont, N.Y., near Albany, Barbara Ann masqueraded as a boy with a ducktail haircut.

As Charles Williams, aged 16, she spent 37 days in this foothills town west of Denver, then five weeks more in the home of a deputy sheriff and his wife before the suspicious officer got her to admit her identity.

Shoot Haircut

The deputy, Sam Teague, before learning she was a girl, had a barber cut her hair short.

She said her secret nearly was discovered the day she was arrested here, Aug. 2.

"They were going to put a boy in my cell, but I started a fight right away and they separated us," she said.

A desire to see the West made her leave home last April after Malpass' "Mom, I'm going. I've just got to go."

"I decided to dress as a boy," Barbara said. "I felt it would solve lots of problems and keep me out of trouble because I didn't have much money and I knew I would be doing some hitchhiking."

No Desire
When she was told she might be given psychiatric help, the girl said she doesn't need it.

"I have no desire to be a boy," she said. "Now that it's behind me I want to get a job—a woman's job—and show all of these people that they have not misplaced their faith in believing in me."

Teague and his wife said Barbara seems to have talent as an artist.

Barbara's parents wonder whether too much cleverness propels their daughter.

Her mother said Friday that Barbara "is a very mixed-up girl. She wanted to draw and paint after she graduated from high school. But she couldn't find that kind of work in the Albany district."

Malpass, who runs a carpet business, mused:
"Barbara's trouble is that she's almost too clever. She's a good artist and she had no outlet."
Mrs. Malpass continued:
"Her parents and her sisters and her brother would be delighted if she returned. If she wants to... If she is really happier where she is we will agree to her staying there..."

Ship Steward Had Wives In Two Ports

LONDON (AP)—Ship's steward Joe Harden had all the comforts of home on both ends of the South American run—a wife in London, a wife in Buenos Aires.

When his ship docked in a London mist, the English wife, Rose, had his slippers waiting by the fire. When he went ashore in Buenos Aires, Rita Catalina Montiveros—Senora Harden to the neighbors—cooked him exotic local dishes such as he never tasted in an English kitchen.

Supporting two households and two wives was naturally expensive. But for a 48-year-old steward, it was an idyllic situation turned sour only when a letter from the Argentinean wife was intercepted by the English wife.

Charged With Bigamy

Within the forbidding walls of the Old Bailey Courtroom Friday, the story of Joe's colorful romance was unfolded.

Joe was charged with bigamy.

"Harden was married in England in 1932," said the prosecutor, Mervyn Griffith-Jones. "In 1953, he met a Miss Rita Catalina Montiveros in Buenos Aires, courted her and told her he was single."

"He was never intimate with her on account of her religion. From then on, they lived as man and wife when he was in South America and he continued to live with his lawful wife when he was in England."

Made A Mistake

The prosecutor explained this state of affairs might have gone on unchecked had not Joe arranged last September for Miss Montiveros to visit England.

"She wrote him a letter which was sent to his home address and was opened by his wife. Thus the matter came to light," said the lawyer.

The defense attorney said Miss Montiveros—now in England—was willing to stand by Joe.

Joe said very little except to plead guilty. He was convicted but allowed to go without penalty on condition that he mend his ways. One condition was that he avoid bigamous marriages in future.

The court was told he is now living with Rita in London—"although they occupy separate bedrooms," Joe's English wife has said she will seek a legal separation.

ONE GREAT CERTAINTY

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Ecclesiastes	4	1-6
Monday	Psalms	102	25-28
Tuesday	Daniel	2	20-23
Wednesday	Hebrews	1	9-12
Thursday	Hebrews	13	6-8
Friday	Psalms	115	16-18
Saturday	Psalms	1	1-6

We go back to the old homestead, the old home town. Perhaps we have long anticipated that visit, but now we find that the changes are so disillusioning that we don't care whether we ever return. We meet a friend of years gone by and hardly recognize him. He too has changed. We compare the face reflected from our mirror with old photographs and realize that, without knowing it, we have changed. We try to use a map of yester-year only to discover that it is out of date.

We shudder a little as we wonder if there is anything that remains the same.

The Church tells us that there is. Through the centuries it is the one institution which points to the unchanging God, "the same yesterday, today, and forever." Worship customs may differ, but every Christian congregation seeks to lead men to the one great Certainty, which is God. That is why you will want to start attending church regularly. Here is peace. Here is assurance.

Easy Billing

When Auditor General Charles G. Smith puts his finger on credit operations in state-operated institutions, he touches a particularly sensitive spot in state government. Nevertheless, his courage in this respect deserves to be applauded.

He criticized Danville State Hospital authorities late last week for not completing credit reports on patients. He said they allowed too much time to elapse before pressing patients for payment of their bills.

This practice of easy billing is said to be a characteristic of state institutions. It is partly explained by the fact that political repercussions may attend a hard-boiled collection policy.

Then, too, to put it the other way around, friends may be made for a political organization, if state agencies only go through the motions of collecting bills—and are careful never to get tough. By this latter practice, unpaid accounts tend to be ignored. The institution just asks for more money from the Legislature to cover the operating deficits which result.

Auditor General Smith has struck a blow at this type of state financing. We can expect to hear howls of political pain, if he keeps the pressure on this sensitive spot—but we can also expect his diligence to lighten our tax burdens, for the more closely state institutions collect their bills the less they will need to rely on the Legislature for funds.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Support Harney Bill

In all the fuss over the budget, we hope the legislators in Harrisburg don't lose sight of another problem. Legislation is urgently needed to close loopholes that cost the state more than $40 million a year in unemployment compensation.

Two bills are now in the Senate Rules Committee. One, backed by the Lawrence administration, would save an estimated $10 million. The other, sponsored by Sen. Thomas P. Harney, of Chester County, would save more than $40 million. The Harney bill would eliminate or greatly reduce unemployment compensation benefits to pensioners, seasonal workers, pregnant women and others who have no legitimate claim to U. C.

There has been considerable clamor to reform the state's U. C. law this year, both from employers and from the public. Yet, we understand, chances are at least 50-50 that the Lawrence bill, which raises benefit rates and makes only a token gesture toward reform, will be reported out of the Rules Committee instead of the Harney bill.

And the legislators, after hammering out a budget, may be in such a hurry to get home that unemployment compensation will be let go until 1961.

Sen. James S. Berger, Republican floor leader, is chairman of the Rules Committee. We urge you to write him in support of the Harney bill. Your letters may tip the scales toward genuine U. C. reform.

The Pennsylvania Story

Crossroads Decision

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Week before last when Pennsylvania's lawmakers decided to recess until Nov. 9 — to take time out for this week's election campaign — it was generally considered on Capitol Hill that the results of Tuesday's balloting on the annual session issue would have much to do with whether the session continued into next year or wound up within a few weeks.

Strategy plans at the time boiled down to something like this: Approval of the annual session idea would mean prolonging the session until Jan. 5 when the first annual session would get under way, thus giving controlling Senate Republicans the opportunity to open up with delaying debate the controversial school aid and budget issues — as well as hang up indefinitely gubernatorial appointments requiring Senate confirmation.

Failure of the annual session proposal would mean on the other hand little to be gained by further prolonging the session, already the third longest on record, with nothing to lead into next year, such as the first annual session.

Whether this strategy will hold following Tuesday's balloting on the annual session issue remains to be seen. Legislative leaders when they met again Monday will be at the crossroads.

Top Security Measures — Those few souls wandering through corridors on Capitol Hill on election day Tuesday — including this lone reporter — if they had taken the time to look twice might have wondered about the top-flight "security" posted around Hill departments.

The place was loaded with State Police. . . The big swinging iron doors were closed on all but main entrances to the various and sundry buildings. . . Those entering had to sign in and out.

Heretofore on holidays the task of guarding the yawning, tomblike buildings that cluster and threaten to sink Capitol Hill has been under the eye of regular Capitol police — no relation by the way to the State Police. . . This time on election day however state troopers were manning the posts.

Quipped one departmental aide who returned to his office with the hope of clearing up odds and ends during the quietude: "Maybe Democrats are fearful, even though this isn't a gubernatorial election—that Republicans are going to run off with Capitol Hill offices anyway, physically that is!"

Election Aftermath — Indications have been strong in recent weeks that following this week's election, the Democratic Lawrence Administration may move smartly in the direction of squaring away patronage problems that quietly have plagued Administration aides.

Historically patronage moves invariably have been deferred until after a coming election. . . Since the Lawrence Administration has been in the driver's seat there have been comparatively few changes on the state payroll front. Up-roarings and public washing of political linen on this score — two items abhorred by the Administration — have been almost non-existent or kept under a tight clamp. . . The election has been the big thing.

With this out of the way, some changes are expected — to pacify some of the clamoring county chairmen and to whip the organization into shape for the upcoming 1960 presidential election year.

The goal: To insure maximum use of every possible facility as a guideline for what Democratic hope will be a Democratic year next year — and that includes the huge state patronage force at their disposal.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Class Asks Support

Dear Editor and the Public: I am writing on behalf of the Senior Class of the East Stroudsburg Senior High School. On Nov. 13 we shall present our Senior Play, entitled "George Washington Slept Here."

Our Junior Play last year was a terrific success, and I believe this year's play will also be a success. But this year we have come up with a big problem.

On the same night as our play, the Endicott-Johnson Chorus will be singing at the college. We would like to ask those not going to this activity to support our play, for it is the bread and butter for a good senior year. All the help the Daily Record and the public can give will be appreciated by my class.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Featherbedding

Two definitions may correctly be given to the word featherbedding.

One is that a laborer performs less work than he is paid to do or that he is capable of doing in a given time.

The other is that the unions require that more personnel be hired on a job than is necessary, so that an individual worker performs more than he is able to do.

Making work rules is the function of management not of the labor union. In fact, union interference can drive us far behind in the world competition for markets.

An instance of the first kind of featherbedding is the use of smaller brushes by painters, and the union's rejection of rollers. This means that the individual painter is slowed up.

He cannot do as much work as it is possible for him to do in a given period and for which he is being paid. If he is a conscientious individual, he will work slowly so that he does not display idle time.

In effect, the union rules cheat the contractor; they prevent the worker from becoming a craftsman. Actually, they keep the worker down in the scale of promotions.

An example of the other form of featherbedding is on the railroads. They are forced to employ more workers than are required to do the job efficiently.

Thus, the cost of operations has gone so high that both travelers and shippers avoid the railroads which sooner or later must close down. Many of the present railroad workers are older men who are waiting to be retired. It is not a good job for an ambitious young man, anymore.

Another example of featherbedding is found in some newspapers, the typographical union demanding that when an advertiser sends in a mat of material already set up and ready for plating—that is, as you see it in the newspaper—a member of the union sets up a duplicate which is thrown away.

This is called "Bogus" in the trade and takes place every day. It is a very expensive item in this business and a wasteful one.

No one can defend featherbedding because it is waste—human waste, capital waste, waste of property and equipment. It is a form of increasing wages and increasing the number of employees.

The end effect of the process is that it ups the price beyond reason and has out-riced, along with other causes, American goods in foreign markets and in some instances even in American markets.

Featherbedding has unfortunate socio-psychological effects. A man is employed to work 40 hours a week. His union specifies coffee-breaks, which only add to his fat and give the girls time to gossip.

The union also stipulates certain holidays during the year. A 40-hour week is the lowest time for employment in any industrial country "It is an eight-hour day," five days a week.

Actually, it is less than a seven-hour day, considering all the minutes for breaks and rests and the go-slow of featherbedding. In effect, it is a constant sabotage, but as it works out, it is not the business alone that suffers but the national economy.

True, it is possible for a modern industry to put in labor-saving devices and to try to absorb the cost of featherbedding, but many industries have reached the breaking-point at which featherbedding cannot be absorbed by the market.

This is the essential cause of the steel strike. Whereas as long as the steel price could absorb the cost of featherbedding, the companies did not fight it; today, however, the steel companies cannot competitively absorb the cost—nor can American automobile companies.

Therefore what the union may ultimately force American industry to do is nationalization; that is, either the government will own the companies or will grant them subsidies to make up for economically unnecessary employment which may be socially necessary.

There is another side to this coin. While we have an enormous labor force of 70,000,000 and automation is reducing the need for excessive manpower, there are actual shortages in all service employments.

Where do these skilled service workers disappear to? Let us say, nurses. What other work do they do that there is such a shortage of them? Has featherbedding created such an attitude that unpleasant but necessary work is avoided?

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

The Confession

Greedy conspirators against every human being. It is a powerful subversive influence and its conspiracy is aimed at the mind, heart and spirit. It is motivated by an abstract conviction that almost nothing exceeds the value of material things. It is a potent and destructive force which compels people to acquire more and more things. And after collecting them—there is the final bitter joke: People learn an abundance of material possessions isn't necessary. And neither do they guarantee happiness. All too often, people pay too high a price for money. In the end, greed is an exercise in futility and tragedy. The most melancholy current example is Charles Van Doren, of course.

In this case, greed toppled with a page-one crash. As Van Doren stands amid the ruins he is faced with the terrible task of clearing away the debris of shattered hopes and dead memories. And he can only vainly cry out: "I would give almost anything I have to reverse the course of my life in the last three years."

Primarily, the story of Van Doren's ordeal is a lesson in the power of conscience. Nobody ever escapes the stern decisions of his personal Supreme Court. . . The brain is one of the most ingenious structures on earth. It is a masterpiece of architectural design. It is the most remarkable plant ever created. It is capable of incredible achievements. Rockets to the moon and the exploration of human cells. Nevertheless, it is ruled by a form of justice we carry within ourselves—and we have named it conscience. "I have learned a lot in those three weeks," said Van Doren. "I've learned a lot about life. I've learned a lot about myself, and about the responsibilities any man has to his fellow-man."

What Van Doren has learned is that a human being is not just a complex biological structure. He is a part of the vast tapestry of humanity. And the man who destroys only a single thread—deprives all of us of its protective warmth.

The torment of Van Doren deserves a measure of understanding and sympathy. In the end, he went through the hell of facing himself. Let no man dismiss such an experience casually. Not many people have the courage or ability to see themselves as they really are. It can be a tremendous thing to suddenly see the hidden universe of yourself. And what did Van Doren see? "In a sense, I was like a child who refuses to admit a fact in the hope that it will go away. Of course it did not go away, and investigation was begun by the office of the District Attorney. . . I had been living in dread for nearly three years; now I became almost panic stricken but I still denied to the investigators that I had been involved. I felt I just could not admit it."

Weather — Weatherman Wm. Hagerty promises us warmer weather in the county. The thermometer was down to 27 on Saturday.

Guests of Home — Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Fabel were host and hostess at a double birthday luncheon to honor Wm. P. Deering of Stbg. and Graydon Bonser of Brodheadville. The birthday cake was presented by Mrs. Al Neipart of Pocono Park.

S. S. Class — A Halloween party was held by the Married Couples Class of St. John's Lutheran S. S. The members were masked. Prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hoskinson, most original couple, and Miss Lester Hay, the funniest.

Football — E.S.H.S. trimmed Belvidere High 25 to 7.

20 Years Ago

Killed — Mrs. Hattie Beehler, 51, was accidentally killed by blast from a shotgun in hands of 9-year-old boy, near Canadensis.

War News — A violent aerial combat between 27 German and nine French airplanes was reported, the French claiming to have shot down nine of the enemy and escaped without a loss.

Soccer — The E. S. High School soccer team won from Blairtown, by a 6 to 1 score. Blairtown High booters at The Schaller boys scored in every period of the game.

Football — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gilpin of Stbg. spent the weekend in Phila. and enjoyed the Penn-Navy game at Franklin Field.

Fame always starts out as an embrace—and frequently becomes a noose. In the story of Charles Van Doren the process followed a classic pattern. He pointed out: "I received thousands of requests to make speeches, appeared in the movies and so forth—in short, all trappings of modern publicity. To a certain extent this went to my head."

To understand the foregoing, it is necessary to understand the intense emotional problems that come with fame and energy, the constant pressures, the anxieties, the easy money and the high taxes. All values are exaggerated and aspirations distorted.

Abigail Van Buren

First-Hand Information

Dear Abby: You recently advised a G. I. who had fallen in love with a Japanese woman while in Japan that if he wanted an American woman to bathe and dress him, he should get himself admitted to an old folks home.

Like all American women, Abby, you missed the point. American men do not fall in love with Japanese women because they make such excellent servants. A Japanese waitress in Ginza has more fresh affection in her voice than some American men hear all their lives in the U. S. A.

It is easy to understand why a man would rather help her husband wash his back than drive him out to a PTA meeting. How are you going to lick such an offer?

The saddest sight in all Japan is that of an American woman who has caught sight for the first time of her competition.

Harold Hughes
(Portland Oregonian Staff writer.)

Dear Abby: I resent your attitude toward American men marrying Japanese women. Witness our own James Michener who wrote the beautiful stories "South Pacific" and "Sayonara." Michener recognized the superiority of the Japanese women. Furthermore, he proved his sincerity by marrying and bringing him a beautiful, cultured Japanese doll.

ROSS

Dear Ross: Mr. Michener's Japanese "doll" was not "imported." She was a Japanese-American.

Dear Abby: May I respectfully advise you that when it comes to the subject of comparing American women to Japanese women you do not know what you are talking about.

As an American man who has spent many years in Japan I can testify that I have never seen a Japanese woman elbow her way into an elevator nor have I ever heard a Japanese woman raise her voice to her husband in public.

C. E. D.

Dear Abby: I lived as a bachelor for many years in Tokyo and never found it difficult to resist the "charms" of the Japanese women. To be perfectly frank, their idiotic conversation would drive a normal man to drink.

I observed a handful of G. I.'s marrying Japanese girls, but 99% of these misfits would have had a tough time getting an American girl of any age to marry them.

Sincerely,
"NOT MADE IN JAPAN"

Dear Abby: My brother was in the U. S. NAVY and he went nuts over a Japanese doll. He married her and went away on a 6-month cruise. When he came home he found his wonderful Japanese wife washing somebody else's feet.

The Allen-Scott Report

Anderson Under Fire

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The Federal Reserve Board is putting Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson on the spot on his repeated assertion that "forty million Americans own government savings bonds."

A comprehensive FRB study casts strong doubts on this claim.

According to these significant Federal Reserve findings, 73 percent of American families—41.5 million out of 56.8 million families—don't own a single savings bond.

On the other hand, five percent of American families—2.8 million—own $36 billion of the $42.5 billion outstanding in these securities.

The Federal Reserve's unpublished study does not break down these figures into the number of individual bond owners. There is no indication whether the total is less or approximates Secretary Anderson's "forty million" claim.

The only reference to this moot question is in an analysis of the FRB's survey made by the staff of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, as follows:

"These compilations show that 95 percent of all families own about $6.5 billion of the outstanding savings bonds. Only five percent of all the families—those holding $2,000 or more—own $36 billion, or 87 percent of the savings bonds outstanding. In many cases, the bonds are in the names of more than one member of the family."

Grilling — The Treasury chief is also clashing with the committee over another government bond issue.

He is flatly refusing its demand for a list of the 50 largest holders of marketable government securities.

It is Anderson's contention this information constitutes "privileged secrets of private parties of which representatives of the government have become cognizant in their official capacities." Also, that to divulge it would have adverse effect on Treasury financing operations.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), Joint Committee chairman, sought these names and holdings in connection with Anderson's insistence that Congress abolish the 41-year-old 4 1/2 percent ceiling on long-term government interest rates. Congress refused to vote that last session, and Anderson is continuing his drive to enact it next year.

It will be one of the major issues of the 1960 session.

Committee insiders are indicating that Anderson's refusal to divulge this data will be injected into the stormy interest rate fight. Already, this backstage controversy is being looked into by Rep. John Moss (D., Calif.), head of the special House committee investigating government secrecy.

In a letter to Sen. Douglas, Anderson contends that "Congress itself has recognized the need for legal restrictions upon release of information of this kind."

"By Section 1905, Title 18 of the U. S. Code," continues Anderson, "it has been made a crime for officers or employees of the U. S. to disclose certain information acquired by them in the course of their official duties. One example is information which concerns or relates to confidential statistical data or to the expenditures of any person or firm."

"Bearing in mind the confidential relationships which the Congress sought to protect and safeguard in enacting this statute, it is doubtful that the Treasury Department has legal authority to supply to you the data you have requested."

Social Whirl—Cabinet members, ambassadors, generals, admirals and numerous other notables are turning out in evening dress for a preview being given by Eric Johnston, head of the Motion Picture Assn., of a prize-winning Russian film.

Some many VIPs are attending that he hired one of Washington's large movie theaters for the occasion. Even Mrs. John Foster Dulles, widow of the former Secretary of State, will be on hand—her first public appearance since his death.

Some find it tough to get to Washington, and others rigorous to leave. Assistant Defense Secretary W. J. McNeill, who is quitting to become head of a steamship line, has 18 farewell parties on his schedule. He will probably need a month of rest and recuperation to get into shape for his new job.

Inside Washington

Buy American

Washington — The government's new insistence that foreign countries spend as much of the money they borrow from the United States as possible in this country can be credited to Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson.

Anderson reasoned that the American economy should at least benefit to that extent from the loans, particularly as they represent a further imbalance in our unfavorable balance of trade.

The State department objected to the new policy but Anderson won out in a debate that went clear up to the White House. Anderson's clinching argument was that it would check the outflow of gold and dollars and therefore would be anti-inflationary.

Ike's Hotel — One of President Eisenhower's very favorite persons is Bobby Jones, the great golfer of yesterday, who conceived and resides at the famed Augusta course.

Jones came to Washington to present the President with a replica of his famous putter "Calamity Jane." Ike was deeply touched.

He was seated a little away from Jones at the White House Correspondents' dinner where the presentation was made.

But he leaned over to Vice President Nixon and told him to tell the old pro that "only one hotel in all of Washington will accept him the next time he comes to Washington, and I run that hotel."

Postoffice Experiment — The Post Office department is experimenting with a machine which can instantaneously transmit letters from coast to coast and has the potential for revolutionizing the U. S. postal service.

The very hush-hush experiments are being carried on

Cuba Gives Travel Agents Warm Welcome, Makes Pitch For More American Tourists

NEWFOUNDLAND — "He is worshipped by his followers, this man with the explosive temperament and compelling personality whose name is Fidel Castro!"

That was the impression Mrs. Harry Duecker, Greentown, had when she and her husband spent two weeks in Cuba recently as delegates to the ASTA (American Society of Travel Agents) convention in Havana.

"Castro was everywhere . . . at every function. People constantly mobbed him, cheering wildly whenever he appeared," she said.

The local couple flew to Cuba where they stayed at the Colina Hotel, one block from the Habana-Hilton, headquarters for the convention. They were welcomed warmly wherever they went, and were told: "Cuba is yours."

"It is so beautiful," said Mrs. Duecker, who had visited the island nearly 20 years ago, but found it much changed. "The shops are so up-to-date, the scenery magnificent, and the people so charming. Wherever we went, cars stopped and people called out and welcomed us, and asked, 'How do you like Cuba?'"

The answer to the first part of the question was easy for ASTA delegates, who toured the island and saw its natural loveliness. They visited Varadero Beach, with its new hotels and motels, yacht club and stretches of sand and emerald water.

They saw the ex-Batista home, now a home for children. They inspected Havana, where their first glimpse had been the newly-completed, glass-enclosed airport which Cubans had

Postal Employees Honor Two Retiring Carriers

TWO RETIRING mail carriers, Elmer Heffer and Thomas Carmella Jr., were guests of honor at a dinner and dance given at the Legion Home last night by fellow employees of the East Stroudsburg Postoffice.

About fifty persons were in attendance. Among the special guests were eight employees of the office who had previously retired.

Bonds Presented
The present staff presented U.S. Savings Bonds to the retiring employees. Heffer has served as a rural carrier and Carmella as a city carrier.

Safe driving awards totaling 28 years of driving without accidents were presented to Oren Shively, Heffer, Stanley Hartman and Eugene Emmerich.

Also honored was Postmaster Norman B. Gregory on his recent installation as state president of the National Association of Postmasters.

Mrs. Heller, 71, Dies In Phoebe Home

BROOKFIELD — Mrs. Mary E. Heller, 71, a native of Brookfield, died unexpectedly yesterday at the Phoebe Home, Allentown, where she had been a guest for the last year and a half. She had been under the care of a physician for a heart condition.

She was the daughter of the late Oscar and Alice Rodenbach, of Brookfield, and formerly lived in Lancaster. Her husband, Franklin F. Heller, died in 1928.

Mrs. Heller was a member of St. Andrew's Church of Christ, Lancaster. Surviving are one son, Roy F., Lancaster, and one brother, John Rodenbach, Morrisville, Pa.

Reports Denied

HAVANA (AP) — Reports swept Havana Wednesday that Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, Cuba's missing army commander, had been found alive but President Osvaldo Dorticos said Wednesday night the reports were false.

worked 'round the clock to finish in time for the ASTA visit.

The convention delegates were convinced that Cuba is going all-out to attract the American tourist trade, with improved facilities, special attractions, at rates aimed at staying within reach of vacationers' budgets.

Mrs. Duecker described the incident of the "leaflet bombing," and said "It was all over so quickly. One plane dropped leaflets, and the Cubans ran around shooting up in the air. Police stood in the streets and fired straight up. Cuban planes took off in an attempt to shoot down the plane."

The Dueckers attended a dinner party given by Castro in the capital, and "the red carpet was quite literally rolled out for us. People stood along the edges of the long, red carpet, cheering a frenzy."

The local couple had an opportunity to speak briefly with Castro, who begged them to "spread the word" about his beautiful country. Also on hand for the Castro dinner were the U. S. Ambassador to Cuba, and the mayor of Havana, among other officials.

Heavy Property Loss In Portland Crash

Truck Rams Pole, Wall And Station

PORTLAND — A Penn-Yan Express Lines tractor-trailer went out of control yesterday at 2:30 a.m. in Portland, causing heavy damage.

The driver, Dale Pielow, of Penn-Yan, N.Y., was admitted to the Monroe County General Hospital with a compound fracture of the right arm and lacerations of the face.

His condition yesterday, the hospital reported, was good.

The truck struck a parked truck, owned by Roger Mansfield, of Portland, damaging the trailer severely. Following the collision, Pielow's vehicle then struck and broke a light standard and a utility pole, went into a concrete wall, dropping its axle assembly, then hit the northwest corner of the DL&W railroad station.

The corner of this building was torn out and automatic signal equipment was scattered throughout the inside of the building. The truck stopped at this point, almost demolished.

Loaded with jars of baby food, the entire contents were thrown over a wide area. Total damages were placed at several thousand dollars.

Mount Bethel and Portland fire companies were called to the scene and stood by, but were not needed since fire did not break out.

Trucks of the Metropolitan Edison Co. and Commonwealth Telephone Co. were at the scene and used long, truck-mounted ladders to clear the wires and keep traffic moving.

Portland Police Chief Jesse Felker reported about 200 vehicles were backed up until the wires were removed from the street.

The investigation will be continued by Felker and Special Officer Joseph Wilhelm.

East Borough Scene Of Two Accidents

TWO ACCIDENTS occurred yesterday in East Stroudsburg. Police reported, and there were no injuries in either mishap.

The first occurred at 11:15 a.m. at the intersection of Washington and Starbird Sts. and involved a car, driven by Lynn Thornward, 19, of 75 Westville Ave., Caldwell, N.J., which was moving east on Starbird. As it turned left on Washington, it collided with a car operated by Homer Fralley, 64, of Stroudsburg, RD 3.

Total damage, police estimated, was slightly over $200.

There were no charges. Officer Richard Notz reported.

The second happened in front of 438 N. Courtland St. at 4:45 p.m. and involved a car driven by Dora E. Flory, of 501 Queen St., Stroudsburg, which was headed north on N. Courtland when it was struck by a car leaving a driveway, police said, and moving onto the street.

Total damage in this accident was estimated by police at $450. There were no charges.

This accident was investigated by Officers Clark Frailey and Notz.

Conley fared no better in three games with Earl Weiss, of Stroudsburg, losing the three.

William P. Deering and Louis Mondelle played two games, splitting the pair.

Just Between Us

—by Bobby Westbrook

Ordinarily the parade in Moscow celebrating the 42nd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution wouldn't interest me in the least. This year I'll be watching the telecasts with interest, particularly if they show crowd shots, to see if I can find E. H. Wyckoff and Holt and Ann.

It does shrink the world to think that a few days ago I was listening to Ann talk about what she was taking in her one suitcase allotment, and how she's there wearing her fur-lined boots and babushka. I presume, which may make her a little difficult to pick out from the crowd.

It sounded like a wonderful trip, and she'd been cramming a lot of information about Russia in the last few weeks, including listening to Russian lessons on records and talking to the first secretary to the Russian Embassy while he was at the college.

I can remember back in the early '30's when Mrs. W. B. Easton made her famous trip to Russia when the Bolsheviks were very, very new and how very far away and strange they seemed, and what a tremendous journey it seemed. Now the Wyckoff party will not only go to Moscow but to half a dozen cities, including a resort, whose name didn't sound a bit familiar, and back again by Thanksgiving.

I envy them their experience, but I wouldn't trade them today. By a chain of coincidences which couldn't happen but did, I'm not only going to the Penn State-Syracuse game, but I've even got a seat.

The football predictors couldn't know that when they were picking Syracuse as the winner because I didn't myself. However, with me there to cheer them on, how could they lose? Anyway, if they should, I'm sure the band will win.

Layaway Major Appliances For Christmas

'Operation Snowflake' Is In Progress At Local Appliance Dealers Now

Appliances In Kitchen 'Move About'

MORE AND more kitchen appliances are ending up elsewhere than in the kitchen. There's no mystery as to where they're going—they're being installed in dens, playrooms and family rooms. Sometimes it's the brand new appliance which ends up here. More often, the new unit goes in the regular kitchen and the old one goes into the family room. Either way, thousands of appliances which arrive as a family gift this Christmas are going to make possible the beginnings of a second kitchen in the family room.

Catching On Rapidly
All this is happening because the concept of a second living room, playroom, family room or whatever you may want to call it is catching on rapidly.

Time was, of course, when the family room was a spartan affair with sparse furnishings. But today many families are showing considerable originality in designing and furnishing these rooms. In situations like this, a "second kitchen" is a natural.

If new appliances are purchased specifically for this extra kitchen, the chances are good that they're scaled down slightly from those in the regular kitchen. On the market right now are a number of small refrigerators which furnish "spot" refrigeration and which are ideal for storing the food and beverages likely to be needed when the gang gathers for a party. Likewise, small ranges and compact sinks are ideal for such rooms.

More Families Doing It
But more and more families are furnishing their second kitchens with the used appliances which become available when new models are purchased for the big kitchen. That's particularly so nowadays when many a refrigerator in good working order is replaced simply so that the housewife can get a modern unit which incorporates the latest convenience features.

Today's Wife Likes Being In Hot Water

TODAY'S housewife isn't happy unless she's in hot water. Automatic hot water, that is. And that's why today many a housewife is giving a second thought to one of the least glamorous of the electrical servants which are available to her—the electric water heater.

Reasons Are Many
There are lots of reasons for these second thoughts. For one thing, many of today's labor-saving appliances are almost totally dependent on a good supply of adequate hot water. The busy mother who must often do at least one and perhaps two or three loads of laundry a day is well aware that her water heater, hidden though it may be, is really what makes it possible for her to keep up with the laundry problem.

It's the same story with the dishwasher. Most women who own one say they couldn't or wouldn't—do without one. And more and more of them are aware that a good hot water supply is vital for this appliance. In this case hot water not only makes it possible to get the dishes clean; it also (if it's hot enough) kills bacteria or germs which may be present.

This new appreciation of water heaters is, of course, a fairly recent development. Since they are a rather utilitarian appliance and one which for many years had to be hidden away in the basement, water heaters seldom rated headlines or got much attention from consumers.

Locate Them Anywhere
One big reason this attitude is changing is that with a modern electric water heater it's no longer necessary to confine the unit to the basement. Today's heaters are attractive as well as efficient and, thanks to the use of electricity as a fuel, they can be located almost anywhere.

- (a) Believe it or not, the first electric dishwasher was invented in 1913.
- (b) The 11 and 12 cu. ft. sizes accounted for 49 per cent of all refrigerator sales last year. In 1948, 11 (or more) cu. ft. models were less than 3 per cent of sales. Big sellers then were 8 cu. ft.

Owner Of Modern Electric Range Rated Lucky Woman

THE LUCKY lady who receives a modern electric range for Christmas this year doesn't have any idea just how lucky she really is.

Chances are that Christmas morning she'll have visions of a well done Christmas bird or a delectable Christmas dessert when she sees her new range.

But only if she looks ahead to the days and weeks beyond Christmas will Mother really appreciate just what her new range can do for her. And if she's too excited to do this for herself, here's how you can explain to her what's in store for her with her new range:

- It's Clean. The ladies themselves have taken a hand in designing today's ranges. You'll find the ovens are easier to clean, the surface units virtually take care of themselves, and the range top and control panel have all been designed with easy cleanup in mind.
- It's Fast. Mother will have to test this for herself before she'll really believe it, but today's modern electric range is faster than anyone would have expected just a few short years ago. She'll appreciate this advantage in the busy days ahead when meal times creep up on her and she must turn out a family dinner in a jiffy.

• It's Automatic. Here's a feature she'll appreciate all year round—whether it's in the winter when she's occupied with club meetings or in the summer when she's out in the garden or down at the beach. The automatic features of her new range will take over her cooking for her and when she returns from the meeting or the beach the family's dinner will be ready for the table. Obviously, it won't take the lady of the house long to realize just how valuable her new range is going to be to her in terms of convenience, labor-saving and new found freedom.

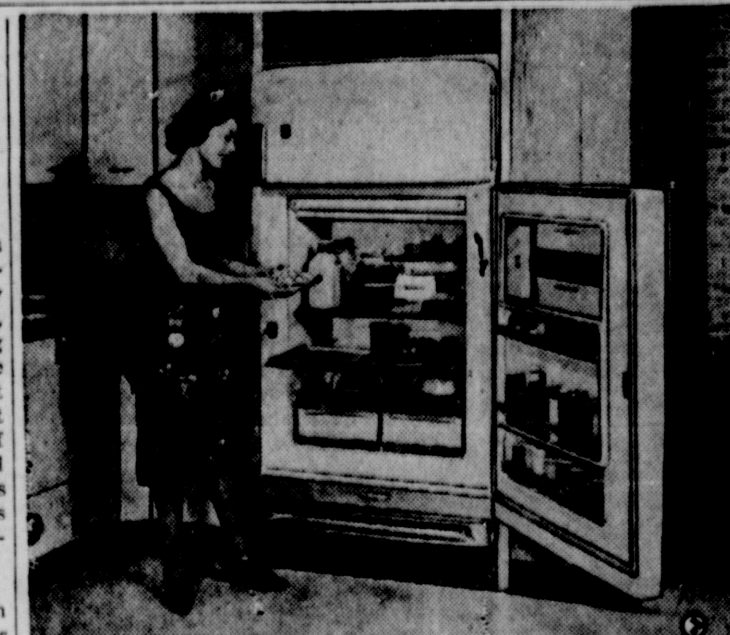

Stores Offer Big Selection Of New Gas Refrigerators

PEOPLE in search of the perfect family gift now will find a much wider selection of spacious gas refrigerators to select from than in previous years. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association reports that a number of makes and models are on the market for the first time.

In addition to the traditional white "free-standing" refrigerators, some now come in kitchen-complementing colors and some models can be "built-in" to wall cabinets and counters like other kitchen appliances. Many are equipped with the popular new ice dispenser that automatically produces a constant supply of "ice crescents" without the muss and fuss of trays.

No Motors
The reason gas refrigerators operate so quietly, GAMA engineers explain, is that they have no motors, compressors, belts, valves or other moving parts that turn, vibrate or grate against each other. The result is smooth, silent operation that maintains a constant degree of coldness without mechanical stops and starts. This also saves on repair bills and service calls throughout the life of the refrigerator.

Silent Servants
GAMA points out that each modern gas refrigerator is equipped with seven "silent servants" that assure a long life of dependable, completely automatic service.

A TINY BLUE FLAME that maintains constant cold without mechanical stops and starts gives the modern gas refrigerator unrivaled dependability, convenience and economy.

Automatic Dishwasher Is Cure For 'Dishpan Hands'

DOES DISHEAN hangover spoil many of your meals?

It does for thousands of American families.

But thousands of others have diagnosed the problem and found a sure "cure" in a modern automatic dishwasher.

The symptoms of dishpan hangover are easy to spot. There's that uneasy feeling that comes over you as the dinner dishes are cleared away and dessert makes its appearance.

Or there's that unwillingness to fuss over preparing a meal because you're afraid that you'll "dirty up too many dishes."

An Unhappy Chore

Dishpan hangover can put a cloud over any meal. No matter how glamorous the dessert and no matter how relaxing and attractive the talk over coffee, someone in the family is all too well aware that in a few moments she'll be bent over the sink with her hand plunged in dirty dishwater, facing once again one of living's more persistent and unhappy chores.

"She" may be mother herself, who all too often finds some of the joy of good cooking tempered with the knowledge that in less than an hour she must switch roles from that of glamorous chef to hard-working scullery maid.

Or "she" may be the daughter, son or father of the family, taking his "turn" at a kitchen chore which is so persistent and so unglamorous that it must be passed around from person to person in regular rotation.

Of course, the fact that the whole family sooner or later becomes involved in the kitchen clean-up chores is one reason why a modern dishwasher makes such an appropriate Christmas gift. In working its daily magic and relieving everyone from his or her "turn" at the sink, the dishwasher becomes the best possible "family" gift.

Many Advantages

Freedom from drudgery is, obviously, the biggest advantage of owning one of these appliances. But a dishwasher has other points in its favor. Many families who own one save money on hot water and on detergent by doing dishes only one or two times a day.

The breakfast dishes are scraped and placed in the machine where they're out of sight until they're joined by the luncheon dishes. Only then is the dishwasher turned on—but turning it on is literally the only thing the housewife must do with today's modern machines which take over the entire chore from the point onward.

Nor will women overlook the money they can save by cutting down on breakage of dishes done by hand. Sometimes it's an overzealous youngster who's responsible, but more often than not it's the fault of the wet and slippery dishes themselves when a valuable plate slips from your hands and shatters on the kitchen floor.

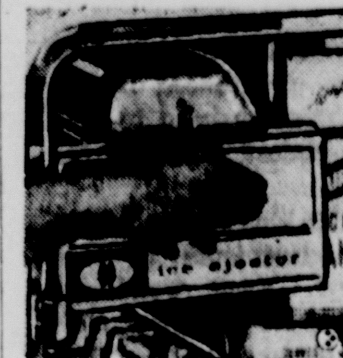

End These Problems

Fortunately, today's dishwashers put an end to all these problems. And, fortunately, too, you'll be able to find one to fit just your needs. The portables are easily hooked up, yet roll away for easy storage. The built-ins and the free-standing models are ideal where space and plumbing facilities can be employed for permanent installation.

But portable or free-standing, this brand or that, every one of today's dishwashers will do exactly what you most want it to do—provide a sure cure for dishpan hangover.

Ironer Is Perfect Present

THE HOME handyman who takes pride in his handiwork and who buys the best tools possible because he wants a professional job is just the man who can understand why the lady of the house would appreciate an automatic ironer for Christmas.

For the ironer is the ultimate "tool" for the housewife who prides herself on the "professional" job she does in keeping her family's clothes in tip-top shape. Although a woman like this can do without an ironer, there's no telling how much more she'll be able to do with one.

New Importance

Today, as more and more families are according laundry appliances the space and attention they need by building special "laundry rooms," the ironer assumes new importance. It's one of the "big three" appliances (along with a washer and dryer) which obviously belongs in a modern laundry.

To the woman who takes real pride in her laundry, the fact that the ironer is the most professional of all ironing tools will be the most important consideration in deciding that she "must" have one.

Advantages

But there are other advantages, too. An ironer eliminates much of the physical labor involved in ironing. And it eliminates the "getting ready" to iron that's involved in setting up and then putting away ironing boards.

But best of all, the ironer gives the housewife new leisure time. Some experts say that it takes only a third as long to machine-iron laundry.

The Christmas gift which makes such savings possible will pay dividends week after week for years to come. And the dividends will be payable in a currency which never loses any value—payable, that is, in terms of savings in effort and bonuses of new-found leisure time.

For the younger set, the idea of a freezer brings with it visions of a ready supply of frozen confections. It's just like having the "ice cream man" in the kitchen all the time.

Mom and Pop have somewhat more serious thoughts about the benefit of a freezer, however. For Mother, the advantages are obvious.

She can, for example, pick a cool day as "baking day" and with all the ingredients and utensils assembled she can bake enough desserts to last the family through busy days ahead when baking might be a real chore.

No Surprise And with a freezer at hand there can never be any such

Vast Changes In Ranges Of Today

TODAY'S range is vastly changed from the look-alike cook-stoves of the past. Now there's a color, style and size to fit every taste and every need.

With color growing ever more popular, for instance, appliance manufacturers have produced ranges in gleaming stainless steel and a whole rainbow of attractive shades to fit any decor. Indeed, modern housewives have not only begun using color in the kitchen—they've begun blending one color with another.

Two Types

As for styles, there are two basic types. The so-called "free-standing" range is the type we've grown accustomed to over the years. The second is the built-in range, with oven and surface burners installed separately at convenient locations.

For the younger set, the idea of a freezer brings with it visions of a ready supply of frozen confections. It's just like having the "ice cream man" in the kitchen all the time.

Home Freezer Ideal Gift For Christmas For Family

LOOKING for a family gift the entire family will enjoy?

A modern home freezer is your answer. Mom, Pop and the children may all have different reasons for being enthusiastic over a freezer—but the important thing is that all of them will enjoy it.

For the younger set, the idea of a freezer brings with it visions of a ready supply of frozen confections. It's just like having the "ice cream man" in the kitchen all the time.

She can, for example, pick a cool day as "baking day" and with all the ingredients and utensils assembled she can bake enough desserts to last the family through busy days ahead when baking might be a real chore.

No Surprise And with a freezer at hand there can never be any such thing as the "surprise" guest for dinner. Full meals can be prepared ahead of time and stored in the freezer until they're needed.

The freezer saves still more of Mother's time when she prepares school lunches in advance, then merely hands them out to the students as they leave the house in the morning.

Here's Dream Dishwasher

ONE DREAM kitchen of the future has a motorized dishwasher which runs right across the room to the dining room table for ease in loading dirty dishes.

Machines like this aren't available yet, but you may want to consider using a wheeled serving cart to bring dishes from the table to the dishwasher. The cart is useful in putting clean dishes away, too, as well as for dozens of other kitchen jobs.

That's important for the man of the house to remember when he goes shopping for a White

Today's Refrigerators Has Whole New Set Of 'Tricks'

IT MAY be that you can't teach an old dog new tricks—but that applies to dogs, not appliances.

Take, for instance, one of the oldest of electric appliances, the refrigerator. Too often you're likely to think of it in terms of a mechanical icebox, vastly more reliable than those old ice chests we struggled with 25 years ago, but still a pretty familiar item.

But today's refrigerator has a whole set of new tricks of its own. Actually, they're not "tricks" in any sense of the word. Instead, they're well-designed innovations which make the refrigerator of today easier and more convenient to use.

"Working" Not Enough That's important for the man of the house to remember when he goes shopping for a White Christmas appliance gift for the family. He may ignore the possibilities in a new refrigerator because "we have one and it still works."

But when he makes that statement the customer is likely to be overlooking the fact that even if his present refrigerator still gives good service, it may lack many of the features that would make it truly modern.

Here, for example, is a quick check list of features which will be found in units already on the market.

Let's begin with style. Today you can get refrigerators in a variety of styles, colors and sizes (and the larger sizes are growing ever more popular). Many have "straight-line" design which permits them to be installed flush up against your cabinets or other appliances.

Defrosting Many modern refrigerators offer automatic defrosting, a feature which any woman who has ever tottered across the kitchen floor with an overflowing tray of melted frost will heartily applaud.

More and more have true freezers to enable you to take advantage of the miracles and economies possible with frozen food. Incidentally, if you already have a freezer and it's readily accessible to the kitchen, you might want to examine the possibility of one of the new "freezerless" refrigerators. They're designed without freezer compartments for people who already have a freezer at hand.

Then check off the convenience features inside the refrigerator itself. Shelves swing out and slide out. They're adjustable up and down and completely removable for storage of bulky items. Storage racks on the doors have been improved and made more convenient.

Special temperature compartments are provided for foods like butter and cheese.

Ice Cube Trays Ice cube trays come in lots of new forms. Some are not really trays at all, but miniature ice-making machines which assure you an every-ready supply of cubes. Others retain the familiar tray but have improved the release mechanisms so that the ice is easier to release.

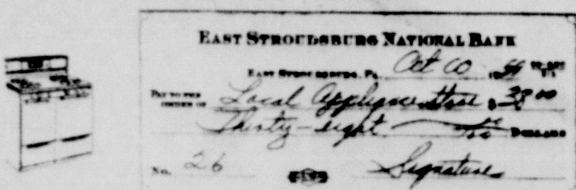

That's only a beginning, of course. A few moments with your local appliance dealer will convince you that today's refrigerators have indeed learned new tricks and that your present refrigerator isn't modern just because "it works."

Gas Dryers End 'Haul And Hang'

A GAS DRYER eliminates the tiresome chore of lugging wet clothes from the laundry room to the backyard; banishes forever the tiring and monotonous routine of hanging clothes on the line. Wind-whipped and sun-faded clothes are gone forever.

Gas dryers save the housewife from handling approximately 45 pounds of wet wash (the average family's weekly laundry) three or four times before it is finally folded and put away. The fluffing action of the tumblers lengthens the life of fibers and permits items like towels, corduroys, cotton knits and flannels to be folded and put away without ironing.

Automatic gas dryers are the fastest on the market. They cost less to install and operate, too. You'll find that they offer numerous advantages such as keeping stuffed toys sanitary and fresh, pillows, blankets and woollens fluffy and new looking.

You can also "revive" certain fabrics in your gas dryer. Velvet, corduroy, wool and synthetics can all be refreshed by placing them in the dryer with a damp towel and a low heat setting.

A few simple rules, carefully followed, will pay dividends in time and energy saved. Always sort clothes according to the load. Dry synthetics with a light load.

Proper tumbling action coupled with the heat of the dryer, will remove wrinkles, providing you do not leave the garments in too long. Always leave a little moisture, never over-dry.

for these jobs right at hand rather than have to cross the kitchen to the clean-up sink.

Kitchen Is Always The Center Of Household On Farm

THE kitchen always has been the center of the farm home.

That's probably one reason why the farmer's wife has been so enthusiastic over modern appliances.

And that's why this Christmas a major appliance makes a particularly fine gift for the farm family.

All the talk we hear nowadays about a "trend" to kitchens big enough to let the family gather around while mother fixes dinner—that's hardly news to farm families who have always gathered there. Anyone with memories of farm life at all remembers a pleasant, warm kitchen fragrant with the skills of country cooking.

One Exception

It's much the same today, of course, with one big exception. The farm wife has been just as alert as her husband to the labor-saving possibilities of electricity. As he has added milking equipment and barn cleaners the lady of the farm has turned in her old cook-stove for an automatic model, and the old spring house for a modern refrigerator.

It's hardly surprising that today's farm is as thoroughly electrified as it is. The reason's quite simple—appliances solve some of the knottiest problems which once plagued the farm family.

The freezer is a fine example. While the farm has always been the nation's bread basket, preserving some of the fruits of his toil was long a problem the farmer had to face. Now, modern spacious freezers enable the farm family to set a bountiful "fresh" table the year around.

Perfectly Suited

Or consider the range. The speed and automatic operation of a modern electric range are perfectly suited to the needs of a farm wife who cooks and bakes often, but who has many another task to see to.

So, too, with laundry equipment. The automatic washer makes light work of work and dress clothes alike.

Packaged Kitchens

MORE and more manufacturers are turning out preassembled packaged kitchens which combine several appliances within one framework. These units, customarily range between seven and nine feet in length and are easily adaptable to the use of the modern homemaker who has limited space.

FUN IN THE SNOW on the way home to lunch often results in wet clothes, but a 30-minute spin in the gas dryer has them toasty warm for the return trip. Mothers like this gas dryer bonus of needing fewer sets of clothing for growing youngsters.

Sink Plays Dual Role

THE ONCE homely sink now comes in an attractive streamlined cabinet package. Modern steels and modern design make sure it harmonizes with other appliances and performs a central role in efficient kitchen operation.

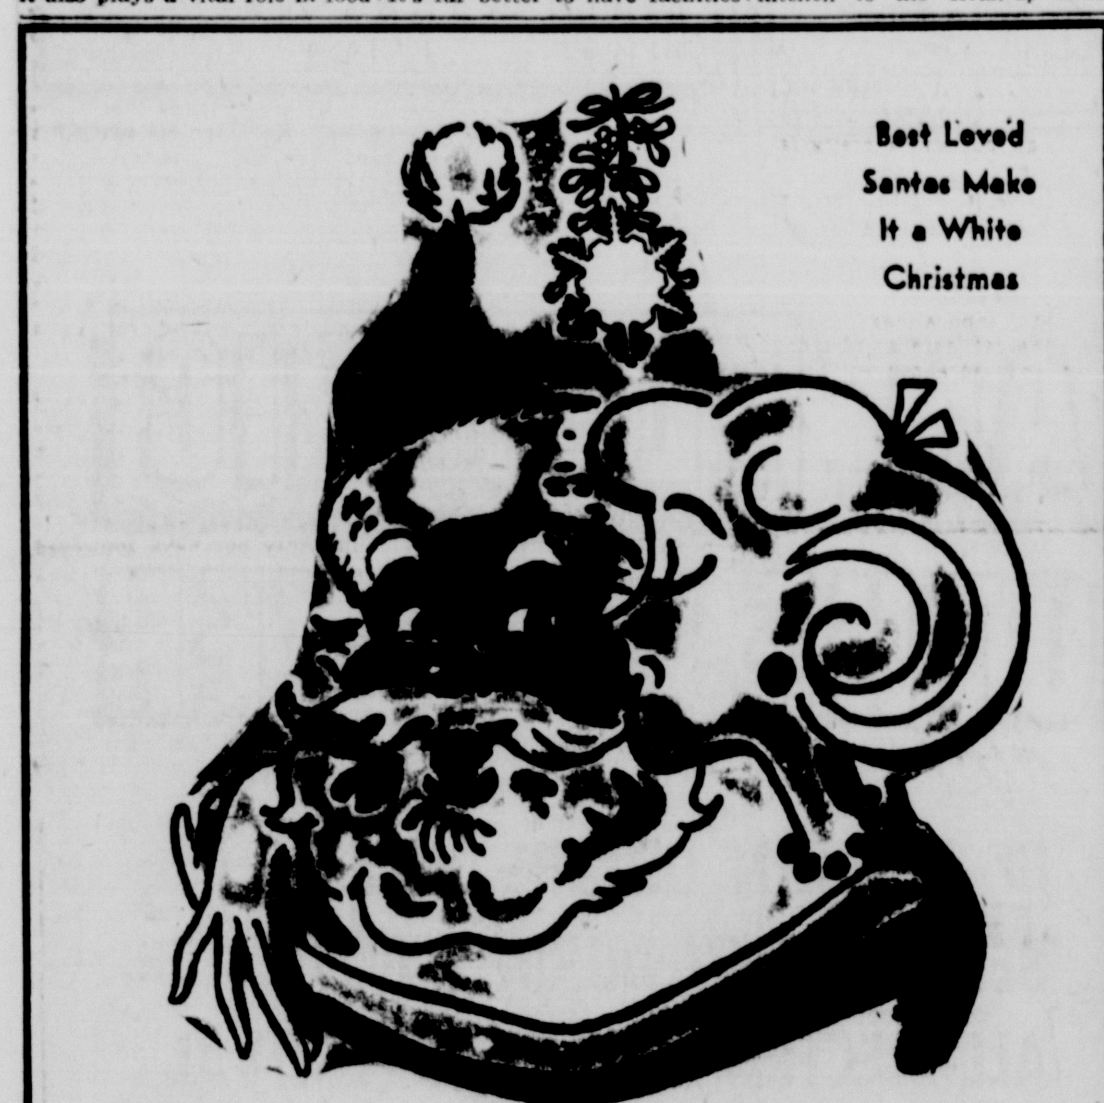

The cabinet sink's steel construction provides a strong, convenient storage area and guarantees that maintenance and cleaning will take a minimum of time.

The sink plays a dual role in the kitchen. It's not only the key area in clean-up operations; it also plays a vital role in food preparation.

So important is each of these functions that many kitchen planners recommended the installation of two sinks where possible. One is placed adjacent to the dish storage area, saving time and motion in the clean-up work after a meal. (Obviously, plans should be made to incorporate a modern dishwasher in this sink.)

The second sink, say the experts, should be placed near the food preparation area. Fruits and vegetables must be cleaned, water drawn and pots drained. It's far better to have facilities

Gold Star Emblem Tip Off

DO YOU have a gas range with a Gold Star emblem in your kitchen?

If you do, you have one of the most modern, convenient and efficient cooking instruments ever built. If you don't, now is the time to let it be known that a new range will be your family's Christmas present this year. Many manufacturers now offer a variety of ranges that meet Gold Star specifications—both built-in and free standing models—for you to choose from.

25 Improvements
Besides complying with the long-standing Blue Star laboratory requirements for safety, dependability and durability, each range awarded the Gold Star has 25 modern improvements and at least two of five optional features. Four burner ranges, for example, have at least one "burner-with-a-brain" which maintains an exact temperature by automatically lowering and raising the flame. And one of the burners is extra large to accommodate over-sized pots and pans.

Both oven and broiler are equipped with automatic pilots. The oven is capable of cooking at a temperature as low as 250 degrees and it is thoroughly insulated so that exterior temperatures do not exceed specified limits. An even light also is required.

No Smoke
The broiler is designed to cook without creating smoke, and the effective broiling area covers at least 80 per cent of the grill. Vents from the oven and broiler are constructed to direct waste products away from the wall. Drawers and racks slide without dragging. The burners, oven and broiler all are easy to clean.

These are only a few of the Gold Star Award specifications, but they will give you an idea of the engineering and workmanship that go into each range displaying the award insignia. Such ranges now are made by manufacturers producing more than 85 per cent of all gas ranges sold in the United States.

Yuletide Spirit Prevails Daily If Using And Appreciating Appliance Christmas Gift

WHO SAYS Christmas comes but once a year?

It can be Christmas 365 days a year—366 if you want to be technical about the Leap Year which looms just ahead.

How's that possible? Simple. Make your Christmas gift one which will be used—and appreciated—every day of the year.

For that purpose it's hard to improve on a major appliance which will make this Christmas a "white one" and will pay dividends of use every single day of the year.

Hot Unglamorously
Best of all, there's nothing "unglamorous" about such an appliance gift. For one thing, designers of today's modern appliances have dressed up their products with so many features and with such attractive trim that no woman can think of them as anything less than glamorous.

But the glamour of a major appliance is more than skin deep. Women might indeed become tired of a product which did nothing but "look good." There's no danger of this happening with a modern appliance which day after day will earn a deeper place in the lady's affections as it takes over more and more of her chores.

New Vistas
Nor are added leisure and labor-saving the only bonuses which an appliance gift will pay. In many cases, a new appliance can open up new vistas for the woman who receives it. Today's modern ranges and freezers, for example, make possible new adventures in cooking and in meal preparation and preservation.

Next July the woman who pulls a ready-cooked meal from her freezer, or who can go shopping while others have to defrost their old refrigerator, or who can sit on the terrace while the dishwasher works, or who can rely on modern appliances to handle her new wash and wear clothes is likely to bless the man who last Christmas gave her a gift which pays dividends 365—or 366—days a year.

Best Gift Of All
FOR VALUE received from an investment, money spent for appliances, gives probably the greatest return of anything a family buys—with the possible exception of the house they live in.

Tiny Blue Flame Lightens Work, Brightens Leisure

A TINY blue flame lightens the work and brightens the leisure of homemakers every day of the year in the form of modern gas home appliances.

Gift shoppers would have to search long and hard to find a more welcome or more practical present than a modern, fully automatic gas range fashioned in durable, functional steel. It makes proficient cooks out of rank amateurs and gives skilled chefs an efficient tool worthy of their best talents.

The reasons for this popularity are not difficult to understand. Chefs—both family and professional varieties—like the speed with which gas responds to the slightest turn of the control knob. They have absolute command of the burner and they can see immediately just how high or how low the flame is set.

They don't have to wait for the burner to heat up before starting to cook, nor does the burner stay hot for minutes after they have finished. These represent savings not only of time, but for fuel, too.

Modern automation is not limited to cooking equipment, however. The same quick response that makes gas the preferred cooking fuel also gives clothes dryers, water heaters, incinerators, refrigerators and other appliances an extra measure of control and safety.

The combination washer-dryer is a good example of the efficiency and versatility of modern gas appliances. Many models use gas not only to provide gentle heat for the drying cycle, but a small heating device raises the temperature of the wash and rinse water to the most efficient level. A cleaner, fresher wash is the result.

The new smokeless-odorless gas incinerators which are becoming more popular every day, also come in a wide variety of shapes and colors.

If you have ever had the misfortune of having food spoil during an electrical power failure, you'll have a special appreciation for the new gas refrigerators now available. Snow, sleet, wind and rain will not interrupt their dependable service.

The 1959 refrigerators feature automatic ice dispensers, self-defrosting, separate freezer compartments and all the other popular innovations, as well as economical, totally silent operation.

Gas home heating equipment, too, is getting the modern design treatment. Compact, smartly styled units—central systems and direct room heaters alike—now are frequently located in the kitchen or recreation room of new houses. Their compactness and colorful steel covers enable them to blend neatly with the other up-to-date home appliances.

Phenomenal Growth
Today, three out of four families rely on gas service in their homes. The phenomenal growth of the gas industry since the end of World War II has been mostly hidden from public view in the underground transmission lines that now extend to every corner of the U. S.

It took the development of high-tensile strength, thin-wall large diameter steel pipes to make long-distance gas transmission practical.

Steel "Stars" In Kitchen

WHILE all due credit for modern appliance miracles should go to the designers who created them, the real credit belongs to an invention housewives never even see or think about. It is the continuous steel strip mill.

Miles away from the kitchen, the strip mill turns out the steel used in modern appliances at the rate of more than a mile a minute. This is the steel that forms the framework into which designers pack the wonder working machinery that does much of today's housekeeping.

Auto Is Comparison

It wasn't until strip mills were developed in the 1920's that mass production of appliances — and a lot of other taken-for-granted products such as the modern automobile — became possible.

Matter of fact, the automobile is a good comparison for appliances. There is about the same amount of steel in the modern kitchen as there is in the automobile. And, a completely equipped kitchen is comparable in cost with a medium-price car.

There the similarity stops. While most people trade off the family sedan every three or four years, they maintain a kitchen in good working order for ten to fifteen years.

Backbone of Industry

The appliance industry consumes between 2½ and 3 million tons of steel each year. This includes carbon steel, backbone of the steel industry, specially formulated alloy steels which are cooked to special recipes to perform specific functions, super-strong high strength steel that provides rigidity without bulk, and the queen of them all, stainless steel.

All these steels have been carefully developed in the vast research facilities of the steel industry. There is constant improvement in quality as a result of research.

Continuous production of steel for appliances has brought them within the reach of nearly every American home. In addition to making household aids readily available, the never ending stream of metal has helped bring prices down.

Desserts World In Home Freezer

A WHOLE new world of desserts is possible with a home freezer. Here's a unique suggestion for "snowmen" by Jean Shaw of Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s home service department.

Buy one quart of vanilla ice cream. Scoop a large ball of ice cream for the bottom, a smaller one for the top. A marshmallow makes a fine head. Raisins, cloves or cinnamon candies produce features. For a top hat, use a maraschino cherry.

Now, parade currants down the front of the snowman for buttons and insert penny lollipops for arms. Harden snowmen in freezer, then wrap in a cellophane bag and return to freezer until ready to serve. Use within two weeks. Makes four snowmen.

Masked Entrance

MANY homes lack an entrance hall, and guests are plumped right into the middle of the living room on arrival. A simple louvered screen built of attractive one by eight inch western red cedar boards reaching floor to ceiling can be installed to close off a few feet of area at the door. This provides a semi-foyer with some privacy.

Appliance Books Should Be Well Read

YOU WON'T find them in this winter's "best seller" lists but the instruction books which come with Christmas presents will be among the "best read" books in millions of American homes during the holidays.

Mother, aware that the full enjoyment of her new appliances depends on just how well she understands them, will be — or certainly should be — poring over the instruction books which came with the new range, refrigerator or piece of laundry equipment.

Rewarding
Nowadays she'll find that this is a pleasant as well as a rewarding occupation. Appliance manufacturers have redesigned their guide books as well as the appliances themselves. Now the books are handsomely illustrated in a manner which insures that the homemaker who takes time to read them will get maximum benefit.

Homemaking editors and home economists agree that the consumer can't hope to enjoy her appliance to the fullest unless she reads the instruction book carefully.

How To Care
If she does she'll learn just how to care for the new product, how to clean it, what to expect with it, and how to prolong the useful life built into it.

Smooths Clothes

USE THE top of your clothes dryer as a folding and smoothing surface. The heat of the dryer aids in smoothing the clothes.

Modern Laundry Equipment Aided By New Wash And Wear Revolution

A REVOLUTION in textiles is revolutionizing modern laundry equipment.

Miraculous new wash and wear fabrics bring with them new ease and convenience for the modern homemaker — if she has the equipment to take full advantage of them.

Many a housewife, for example, can't see any great advantage in her husband's purchase of a wash and wear suit if it means tedious hand washing and meticulous care in drip-drying. To be sure, she's saving cleaning bills — but she's doing it at the expense of her own time and effort.

Specially Designed

That's why a modern washer or dryer (and preferably both) makes such an ideal gift this Christmas. Millions of women own older automatic washers which can be used to handle the new fabrics. But all of these women are well aware that today's models are specifically designed to automatically wash the new textiles.

With an older washer, for example, you must choose (usually manually) a warm water wash and cold rinse, a somewhat shortened wash cycle (depending on the type of fabric), a slow or shortened spin period and slow wash agitation. On today's automatics all of these considerations are taken care of by the touch of a button.

Many washers have several "programmed cycles," each of which is designed for a particular type of fabric. Merely choose the "program" that suits the load, touch a button, and the revolution of wash and wear has really materialized in your home.

Now Easier and Safer

The same situation holds true when it comes to drying these new fabrics. It can be done in an old dryer (or by drip drying) but it's infinitely easier, safer and more convenient in one of today's models which satisfy all of the drying requirements for wash and wear — and satisfy them automatically.

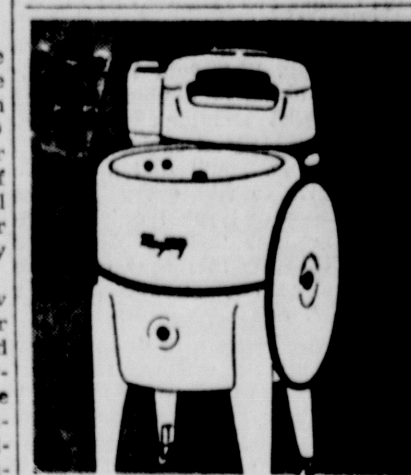

The housewife who finds new laundry equipment in her Christmas stocking will find other new features too. Striving constantly to make the whole laundry process more automatic, manufacturers are adding special dispensers which automatically dispense the proper amounts of detergent, fabric conditioners and bleach at the right moment.

The makers of laundry equipment have continued to dress up their products, too, aware as they are that the laundry area in today's home is liable to be in full view of the family and visitors and not tucked away in a dark corner of the basement. Today's washers and dryers are available in a variety of colors and in a variety of sizes to fit every family's requirements.

See the Combination
And don't forget when you're shopping for the newest in laundry equipment to take a close look at the newest and most glamorous member of the laundry family — the combination washer and dryer. You may find that it's more economical or more convenient for you to purchase a combination rather than two individual pieces of equipment. It's up to you — but it's a choice on which you can't go wrong.

Housewife Own Kitchen Expert

COULD YOU use an efficiency expert in your kitchen? Most housewives would say yes to that question.

But most housewives would be surprised if they were told that they themselves are the best qualified efficiency experts.

The reason's simple — a kitchen is a personal possession and no two are just alike. One family may have lots of cookware while another uses a very minimum of pots and pans but has drawer after drawer of "gadgets" used in preparing the meal.

Three "Centers" in Kitchen
Modern steel kitchen cabinets offer the ideal solution for convenient storage of kitchen utensils of every kind. But even the best cabinets can't organize the storage of the various things which go into a kitchen.

Basically, kitchens split into three "centers" — a refrigeration center (where food is stored and prepared), a range center (for cooking) and a sink center. With this in mind you'll quickly realize that each item in your kitchen "belongs" to one of these centers.

Mixing bowls, measuring cups and on-perishable foods should be stored near the refrigerator. Skillets and pots and pans belong near the range, of course. And clean-up materials as well as storage space for clean dishes should be found near the sink center.

Consult Kitchen Specialist

Once you've gone this far it's time to see how much modern steel kitchen cabinets can do for you. Visit your local appliance dealer or kitchen planning specialist and look over the wide variety of cabinets he has available. You'll find a specific cabinet to fit every storage area — and you'll quickly discover that these cabinets are so versatile that they can take care of any storage problem which arises.

Don't hesitate to discuss your own kitchen problem with the dealer. He's a trained expert who can give you invaluable suggestions. But, in the end, he'll very often depend on your own diagnosis of just what you want in a kitchen. For, after all, you're the best efficiency expert in the world when it comes to your kitchen.

Convenience Seen As Key To Locating Your Sink

TIME WAS when the first prescription for a kitchen plan was to "put the sink under the window."

Not so anymore, say the experts, who point out that advances in kitchen lighting techniques have removed one of the principal reasons why people longed for windows and sinks were inseparable.

Nowadays, many modern kitchens have the sink in a "peninsula" which extends into the middle of the floor. There are now units which permit you to pull a stool right up under one of the bowls of such a peninsula sink while working.

Not everyone, of course, will have room for either two sinks or for a peninsula sink.

Can Find Type

Almost everyone today can find just the type of steel cabinet sink he requires to fill his needs. These units provide good storage facilities, have convenient ledges and back-splashes and provide ideal work areas.

They're available in a wide variety of sizes with single or double bowls and with a whole host of individual features which your appliance dealer or plumber will be glad to demonstrate for you.

And after you've seen them you're likely to agree that if glamour means magic, then glamour is a good word to describe today's modern sink.

Vanishing Americans

ACCORDING to figures compiled by the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, the household servant is the vanishing American. In 1930 there were well over 400,000 domestics employed. Twenty years later there were fewer than 150,000. Fortunately American women have wonderful new appliances to replace the ever dwindling supply of household help.

Installment Buying 'Saves'

HAVING the appliances they need when they need them is made possible for most families by installment buying.

Instead of waiting until all the cash is saved before buying the appliances you need, it makes sense to get them now and "save" the money in installment payments. You save your money in durable goods and enjoy the use of them while you get together the cash to pay for them.

May Be a Must

Sometimes the immediate buying of appliances is a must. With a new baby in the house, for example, a washer and dryer are invaluable for a new mother who is taking on the additional work of a baby and needs all the extra time and energy she can get.

There is no formula for determining how much of a family's income can be spent on monthly payment plans. However, it is known that middle income families average about 13 per cent of take home pay for this purpose.

Even if you have cash on hand, there may still be good reason to buy on installment. You can keep your savings intact, and regular installment payments discipline you against frittering away your income on unnecessary items.

You may not need credit or want to buy on time. Still, there are important reasons why you should establish a good credit record for yourself. Obtaining a mortgage on a house is an example.

Good Record Helpful

Your application can be expedited if a past payment record proves you are a good credit risk. If no such previous record is available, it is much harder to judge character and capacity to meet obligations.

If you're wondering how installment credit buying affects the saving habit, a special study by the Federal Reserve Board reveals that: "Consumers' desire to save and the importance they attached to the accumulation of savings were not impaired by their extensive use of installment buying."

JOHN WHITEHEAD, former head football coach at Stroudsburg High School, recorded his first victory as head grid boss at Middletown (N.Y.) High School last weekend.

Whitehead's Middle proteges won a 12-6. It was Middletown's first win in 14 games since Whitehead took over at the New York State school.

Whitehead has been rebuilding Middletown's grid fortunes since he left Stroudsburg. Middletown Record Sports Editor Ed Giebb says that winning football at the school is still a year or two away.

However, Giebb, sees the possibility of Whitehead's charges beating Port Jervis in their annual Thanksgiving Day game.

A tip to the wise is sufficient — Richie Lucas will start for Penn State today against Syracuse but the Nittany All-American candidate is still not up to par physically.

Despite reports he has recovered from his slight concussion last week in the West Virginia game, Lucas will be unable to take any kind of punishment.

In fact this corner heard that Lucas — a two-way specialist — will only be going offensively with little defensive work. And if he gets any kind of a bump he'll come out of the lineup entirely.

Jim Riley, former sports and city editor of the Daily Record, ran into an old friend the other day in Lancaster. The gent who took up a lot of Jim's time talking about the area was Bill Crooks, former first baseman for the Twin City Softball team and a ex-Stroudsburg High football player.

Bill works for American Telegraph and Telephone in the Lancaster area. Jim is on the staff of the Lancaster Intelligence.

Bill Freer, coach of Chestnut Hill High's basketball team, is setting up a court clinic for all schools in the Monroe Scholastic Basketball League.

Bill plans to get a top notch basketball mind to head the staff.

Delaware Valley Joint High School will play six teams in the Monroe Scholastic Basketball League this season.

Area schools on the DV court schedule are Chestnut Hill, Tobyhanna, Pocono Twp., Polk, Barrett, and Coolbaugh.

Basketball drills have started at Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High. Bob Wert is directing the Mountaineer workouts and Doug Schoonover the Cavalier practice sessions.

However, both sides will be awaiting until after Thanksgiving Day for football players to report to workouts.

The Lions Club honored Marty Baldwin the other night for service in the area sports world.

T. Manning (Cap) Curtis, director of athletics at Stroudsburg High, presented Baldwin with a gift from the Lions group. At the same session, Coach Jack Gregory of East Stroudsburg High, and Walt Bjorn of Stroudsburg spoke.

Syracuse And Northwestern Get Severe Football Tests

By Jack Clary
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

IS Syracuse's "Sizable Seven" really as big as it's touted? And will that exciting Northwestern team get its biggest push toward representing the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl? Stick around Saturday and you'll find the answers to these, and a few other pertinent football problems.

Unbeaten Syracuse (6-0) plays unbeaten Penn State (7-0) in the East's biggest game of the year, with the winner having a choice of four major bowls.

In the Midwest Northwestern, unbeaten in six games and the nation's second-ranked team in the latest Associated Press poll, meets Wisconsin (5-1), ninth-ranked and having a severe case of "rose" fever.

Meet Tennessee

These are the day's two big games, but top-ranked Louisiana State, after consolidating its position last week by beating Mississippi, can't rest against tough Tennessee. Third-ranked Texas also tries to take a step closer to the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl's host spot against Baylor.

Syracuse ranked fourth, is the nation's top team in offense and defense and tops in scoring with a 36.2 point per game average. Most of this success is pinned to its starting line, appropriately named the "Sizable Seven" (they're 6'3" and average 215 pounds).

Against this Penn State (No. 7) sends star quarterback Richie Lucas and the anonymous, though impressive, cast of characters fronting him.

Northwestern has ace halfbacks Ron Burton and Ray Purdin in good shape for one of the few times this year. Wisconsin, with a loss to Purdue in conference play, must win or drop out of the Rose Bowl picture.

Intercollegiate

Southern California's Trojans, 6-0 and ixth-ranked, meet West

Virginia (3-4) in an intersectional game in Los Angeles.

The other three top 10 teams are in the South, with Ole Miss (No. 5) meeting brave Chattanooga, which fell before Tennessee a week ago. Eight-ranked Auburn (5-1) still has hopes for the Southeastern Conference title as it meets Mississippi State (2-4) at Birmingham, Ala.

Clemson, atop the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 4-0 mark and 5-1 overall, also has its eye turned on a possible bowl bid as it goes against ACC foe Duke, 3-4, but winners of its last two.

The regional television games will show Pitt at Boston College, in color, beginning at 1:30 p.m. EST over NBC, and the Air Force meeting Big Eight member Missouri (2:30 p.m. EST). The AF-Missouri game will be hooked in to the East after the completion of the BC-Pitt game.

Major Games

Other major Saturday games include:

EAST: Yale vs. Penn at Philadelphia; Princeton at Harvard; Villanova at Army; Bucknell at Colgate; Dartmouth at Columbia; Brown at Cornell; Boston U. at Holy Cross; Maryland at Navy.

SOUTH: Tulane vs. Alabama at Mobile; Georgia at Florida; William & Mary at Davidson; North Texas State at Louisville; Kentucky at Vanderbilt.

MIDWEST: Oklahoma at Kansas State; Kansas at Colorado; Michigan at Illinois; Nebraska at Iowa State; Minnesota at Iowa; Purdue at Michigan State; Georgia Tech at Notre Dame; Indiana at Ohio State; Denver at Oklahoma State.

SOUTHWEST: Arkansas at Rice; SMU at Texas A&M.

FAR WEST: Washington at Oregon State; Oregon at California; Texas Tech at Arizona; Utah State at Colorado State U.; Utah vs. Idaho at Boise; Montana at Montana State; Brigham Young at New Mexico; UCLA at Stanford.

Intercollegiate

Southern California's Trojans, 6-0 and ixth-ranked, meet West

Snead Putt Gives U. S. Ryder Lead

By Will Grimsley
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP)—Capt. Sam Snead sank a nine-foot pressure putt on the final hole to stave off defeat and give the United States a 2½ to 1½ lead over Britain Friday in the opening scotch foursome of the Ryder Cup golf competition.

Snead and his celebrated partner, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, were one hole behind the long-hitting British team of Dave Thomas and Harry Weetman, coming to the 470-yard final hole.

Both teams were in the water on their approach shots but Middlecoff chipped to within eight feet and Sam calmly sank the final putt for a bogey 5.

Weetman missed a nine-footer which would have given his team a victory. The match ended in a half, each team getting a half point.

America's other points were picked up by a pair of musclemen, Bob Rosburg and Mike Souchak and the twosome of Julius Boros and Dow Finsterwald.

Rosburg, the Professional Golfers Assn. champion from San Francisco, and Souchak fashioned the day's finest golf in erasing Bernard Hunt and Eric Brown 5 and 4.

Boros and Finsterwald won 2-up from British Capt. Dai Rees and Ken Bousfield.

Wall-Ford Loss

The British picked up a point when Irish Christy O'Connor and Peter Alliss won over Art Wall Jr., the Masters Champion and Golfer of the year, and Doug Ford, former Masters and pro champion, 3 and 2.

It was the best showing ever on American soil for the British in the scotch foursome type of play, in which two-man teams play one ball and hit alternate shots.

Saturday the two teams square off in eight 36-hole individual matches. The win will be televised nationally over NBC between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. EST.

The British are seeking to keep the trophy they won two years ago at Sheffield, England, when they defeated the American professionals for the first time in 24 years.

NFL Barges Into Second Half Of Card

By John Chandler
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE National Football League barges into the second half of a rugged season Sunday with the New York Giants holding a one-game lead in the Eastern Conference and the San Francisco 49ers sporting the same advantage in the Western section.

There are four key contests this Sunday. Any slips from here on in by the leaders could prove fatal.

The Chicago Cardinals play the Giants at Yankee Stadium, Baltimore commutes to Washington to meet the Redskins, San Francisco visits Los Angeles to tackle the Rams, and Philadelphia faces the Browns in Cleveland.

New York has a 5-1 mark in the east, Cleveland and Philadelphia are tied for second with 4-2 records. San Francisco tops the West at 5-1, and the world champion Colts are right behind with a 4-2 mark. The Cardinals and Redskins are both 2-4 in the Eastern race, with Los Angeles 2-4 in the West.

Take On Bears

In other Western division games the Green Bay Packers (3-3) play the Bears (2-4) at Chicago, and the Detroit Lions 1-5 invade Pittsburgh to meet the Steelers (2-4).

The Giants are favored by seven over the Cardinals, but injuries could hurt the Giants. Chuck Conerly, Frank Gifford and Bob Schnelker are listed as doubtful starters.

San Francisco racked up Los Angeles 34-0 in their opener Oct. 4. There's word going around that it's a must for the Rams or Coach Sid Gillman may be packing his bags. The odds are: pick 'em.

In Washington the Colts are 9½ point favorites. Cleveland is eight over Philadelphia and the game is crucial for both.

Pittsburgh rules a six-point choice over Detroit, while the Bears are favored by seven over Green Bay.

License Revoked

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission Friday revoked the license of Rosensohn Enterprises Inc.

'Sizable 7' Penn State's Big Problem

By Jack Hand
(By The Associated Press)

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Syracuse sends its "Sizable Seven" after Penn State's Richie Lucas Saturday in a clash of two unbeaten football powers for the

If the mountainous Syracuse line (5-3, 215-pound average) can contain Penn State's All-American quarterback hopeful, the one-touchdown odds favoring the Orange should hold up. If Lucas gets loose, Syracuse's proud defensive record might wind up in shreds.

Wild eyed youngsters rode around the State campus 15-deep in cars carrying "Squeeze the Orange" banners. They have been holding impromptu pep rallies all week since a visiting delegation dared smear Orange paint on the body of the Nittany Lion shrine.

Ranked 4th

Syracuse (6-0) comes to town as the No. 4 team of the nation. Penn State (7-0) is no. 7. Both think they can lick the world. Something has to give.

Statistics attest to the awesome defensive ability of Syracuse's "Sizable Seven." The enemy has gained a ground in six games for an average of 22.3. Syracuse leads the nation in offense with an average of 43.2 yards an in defense with an average of 95.8.

Lucas has completed 45 of 87 passes to Henry Opperman, Norm Neff, Dick Hoak or Jim Kerr for a 51.7 percentage and four touchdowns. Dave Sarette, Syracuse's surprising sophomore quarterback, has hit for 60.8 per cent with 31 of 51. Ends Fred Mautino and Gerry Skonieczki and halfbacks Ger Schwedes and Ernie Davis are his best targets.

Bread and Butter

The ground game is the bread and butter for both teams. With Lucas rolling out on the option series, the halfback slotted wide and ends split, Penn State calls its system a "scatter" offense. Syracuse operates from the regular T with an unbalanced line and an occasional flanker.

Davis, a sophomore speed merchant from Elmira, N. Y., is the chief Syracuse ground threat although fullback Art Baker can scamper and right halfback Ger Schwedes is the top scorer with eight touchdowns.

Unless it is a lopsided game, both teams might wind up in a bowl. The winner will be able to take its pick.

90 Years Ago

By SID MOODY

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—Ninety years ago Friday 25 handpicked students from Princeton University blew up an inflatable sphere and hopped on the 10 a.m. train for New Brunswick.

Little notice was made at the time but they were on their way to the birth of intercollegiate football.

On Nov. 6, 1869, Princeton played Rutgers in the first football game between colleges. As has happened rarely since, Rutgers won 6-4.

In those innocent days it wasn't

Northwestern Coach Heads Clinic Staff

MARTY BALDWIN, director, last night announced that Ara Paraseghian, successful head football coach of Northwestern University, will head the staff at the 15th annual Eastern Pennsylvania Coaches Clinic at East Stroudsburg Teachers in June.

Paraseghian, subject of leading articles in recent Life and Sports Illustrated magazines, presently has the Wildcats leading the Big Ten Football Conference with an unblemished 6-0 record.

Paraseghian will join Dave Nelson, Delaware University coach, on the top notch staff secured by Baldwin. Nelson is the inventor of the famed Wing-T attack.

Cousy Signed Up

On the basketball side Baldwin has lined up Bob Cousy, spectacular Boston Celtic court wizard, and Ben Carnavale, Navy basketball tutor.

Baldwin also has sent invitations to Paul Deitzel, coach of the nation's top college team, Louisiana State; Red Auerbach, coach of the World basketball professional basketball champions, Boston Celtics.

Paraseghian comes from the "maker" of top notch coaches — Miami University of Ohio. The present Wildcat mentor is one of three great teachers who graduated from Miami. Others were Red Blaik, great Army coach, and Deitzel.

Urges Firing Of 'Dirty' Coach

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown called Friday for the firing of any coach who is teaching dirty football.

His statement grew out of a press conference discussion of the charges by the University of California of deliberate roughness by Mike McKeever, University of Southern California lineman.

Brown hastened to emphasize he was not making any charges himself. He said he didn't know enough about the case, involving injury to UC halfback Steve Bates in last Saturday's US-USC game.

The lonely end or the belly option that won for the Scarlet.

Rutgers, "though comparatively weak," simply "ran wild and kicked well throughout," the Rutgers student paper, Targum, observed at the time.

"Princeton had the most muscle but didn't kick very well and wanted organization."

It was as simple as that. No one burned the coach in effigy after the game. There weren't any coaches.

Targum noted the players "had an amicable feud together and at 8 o'clock our guests went home in high good spirits but thirsting to beat us next time if they can."

Which Princeton did again and did game until 1938. The series again. Rutgers didn't win its season stands 44-6 for Princeton.

The locker rooms were rather public in those days, Targum reported.

Eastburg High Entertains Port Jervis Under Lights

EAST Stroudsburg High hopes to rebound into the win column tonight when the Cavaliers entertain Port Jervis High at Memorial Stadium. Kick off time is 8 p.m.

Stunned last Saturday by Hellertown on a muddy field, the Cavaliers worked hard all week to get back their defensive and offensive touches.

Stroudsburg, Slatington Tilt Today

STROUDSBURG HIGH will face Slatington High this afternoon at Gordon Giffels Field, starting at 3 p.m.

The Mountaineers and Slaters were scheduled to meet last night under the nightlights at Giffels but yesterday's heavy rainfall forced Stroudsburg officials to postpone the tilt until today.

The contest, a Lehigh Valley League duel, will pit Stroudsburg with a 3-4 record and a two-straight winning streak against Slatington which is 2-1 on the season.

Pin Classic Tomorrow Reformation

THE SECOND week of the '840 Bowling Classic will be held tomorrow at the Colonial Lanes, starting at 2 p.m.

Radio Station WVPO is sponsoring the event which pits the four top bowlers of the week against each other.

Tournament head Ernie Transe yesterday announced the names of three participants who will compete tomorrow.

They are:

Jim Schoch, Cresco, (655 in the Pocono Catholic Missions League at Barrett Bowling Center).

Harold Storm, Stroudsburg, (617 in the Elks No. 319 League at the Elks Home in Eastburg).

Paraseghian, subject of leading articles in recent Life and Sports Illustrated magazines, presently has the Wildcats leading the Big Ten Football Conference with an unblemished 6-0 record.

Scholastic Grid Scores

The Cavaliers will be seeking its fourth victory of the year. East Stroudsburg has won three and lost two and tied two.

Port will come into Eastburg with a 1-5 log. However, the New York Staters have scored in every game and lost three contests, despite running up 21 points in each contest.

Vet-Dotted

The invaders have a veteran-studded team, with 18 lettermen among the squad which played against East Stroudsburg last year.

Eastburg Coach Jack Kist will probably go with the same personnel which has held sway most of the season. Starting at ends will be Ray Uhl and Bob Herman, while Captain Foster Ladlee and Vince Patella work at tackles. Tom Rohner and Joe Steele, will be at guards and Bill Schoupe, center.

The Cavaliers backfield will be composed of Jack Fellman at quarterback, Mike Puzio, Brian Farris or Harold Myers at halfbacks, and Vic Alyn at fullback.

Certain to see duty are Bill Hillman, end-tackle; Bud Stann, a tackle; Mike Boushell, guard; and John Sandstrom, end.

Defense Best

The Cavaliers have showed that its defense has been their best weapon this year. They have held three opponents scoreless and have had only four touchdowns scored against them. Two of these were via passes and the other two were set up by long aeriels.

Offensively the Cavaliers were only able to whip up one big scoring movement and that was against Parkland. However, Eastburg did show signs of ball control in every one of its winning efforts.

East Stroudsburg High's band will entertain at pre-game and halftime ceremonies.

DeJohn TKOs Powell In 47 Seconds

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Mike DeJohn of Syracuse floored former pro football player Charlie Powell three times with a series of vicious lefts and rights Friday night for a 47-second first round victory in their nationally televised fight.

Powell at 209, simply withered under the startling charge of the hometown boy. It was an ending similar to DeJohn's one-punch knockout of Alex Miteff in October 1957.

The 205½-pound DeJohn caught the San Diego, Calif., heavyweight flush on the jaw with the second punch of the fight, a vicious left. Powell got up, shook his head once or twice and then went down under a left-right combination.

Seconds later he was on the canvas for the third time and Referee Joe Palmer stepped in and stopped it.

DeJohn, after his win over Miteff, had been just so-so in recent months.

Although unranked, DeJohn was a 6-5 favorite over Powell, former defensive end for the San Francisco 49ers. He was ranked eighth by the National Boxing Assn.

"I was caught cold," the dejected Powell commented in the dressing room. "I didn't get a chance to get warmed up to show what I can do."

The quick triumph won DeJohn a Dec. 18 date against Eddie Machen in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The knockout was No. 27 for DeJohn, and his 38th victory. DeJohn, 28 next month, has lost seven and drawn once.

Powell, 26, now has a 20-5-2 record.

Bangor To Host Palmerton In Battle Of 'Behemoths'

A BATTLE of the behemoths is expected at the Bangor Memorial Park Stadium Saturday afternoon when the Slate Pickers of Bangor Area Joint High School meet the Blue Bombers of Palmerton High. A non-league contest for both schools, it however can be expected to be a hard battle. Both teams sports 3 win and two losses records and over the years hard football has been the order of the day when they meet on the gridiron.

Bombers Big
Scouting reports received by Bangor Coach David Dailey Pritchard indicate that Palmerton has a big fast team that will test the metal of the Slate Pickers. Last year the Slate Pickers defeated the Blue Bombers by a very comfortable margin largely through the passing efforts of Frankie Butz and the pass catching of Kenny Haas. Both are now gracing college freshmen eleven and the maroon combinations are different.

Twin City TV At Bethlehem

TWIN CITY TV will journey to Bethlehem tonight to do battle with Gebhardt's Bowling Supply Co. in a Delaware Valley Bowling League match.

Match time is set for 8 p.m. on the Liberty High alleys. Twin City, presently in fourth place will go to the fore with Walt Kelper, Pete Casella, Okay Stuckey, Ken Barnes, and Ken Fetherman.

Twin City trails the leading Banko's Beverages by seven points and second place Easton Fleas by six points. The other twelve teams in the league are bunched with ten points separating third and fourteenth places.

Game Cancelled

GRAND FORKS, N. D. (AP)—The North Dakota-Idaho State football game, scheduled here Nov. 11, has been canceled by mutual agreement. L. R. Marti, acting director of athletics at North Dakota, said weather conditions make the game a poor risk. Temperatures fell to one above zero Friday and about two inches of snow was on the ground.

Moravian Vs. Upsala At Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM—Moravian College's football team will have its back to the wall and hope it doesn't have its feet in mud for the third straight week Saturday in its final home game of the season.

A strong Upsala team will be the opponents at Moravian Field at 2 p.m. The Greyhounds' new satellite offense has bogged down in deep goos two straight weeks in losses to Lebanon Valley, 6-0, and Albright, 33-12. In fact the 33 points scored against them in the first half by Albright was about as bad an offensive pummeling as a Greyhound team has absorbed in years.

Bright spots in the Albright beating were provided by Bucky Yelovich, Bethlehem sophomore, and Bill Hershey, Litz senior. Bucky, who made all-East sophomore honorable mention for the third time, is ready to sue somebody. Against P. M. C. two weeks before he had a 64-yard touchdown run called back for penalty. Against Albright he went 91 yards from scrimmage and 47 yards with a punt return for TDs. They were both called back.

Hershey pulled a real Halloween prank on the Albright team. He let a rolling punt stop short with five or six Lions hovering over it, and then picked it up and raced from his 23 to the Albright two.

At stake in the Upsala game will be the Blue and Grey Cup, which Upsala won in its first test for the prize last year. The man to watch in the Upsala backfield is Steve Friedman, halfback, named to the all-East first team last Saturday. He and his teammates have a 4-1 record, losing only to unbeaten Fofstra, 6-0.

Royals Cut Roster
CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Assn. Friday placed Larry Staverman on the inactive list. The action reduced the Royals' roster to 11 players as required by the NBA by Saturday night.

Kemp Kadets To Parade In Emmaus

THE Kemp Kadets drum and bugle corps will take part in the Emmaus Armed Forces Day parade for the third consecutive year tonight.

Ted Stevens, business manager for the Kadets, requested corp members to meet at the Legion home in East Stroudsburg tonight at 5:30. Parade time is 8:00 p.m.

This is the fourth time in two weeks the Kadets have entered regional parade competition. Stevens said the corps expects to have more than 30 in the line of march tonight and will unveil an enlarged color guard section and a new "T-formation" drum section.

Van Why Returns

Joining the Kadets once again tonight will be Larry VanWhy, former snare drummer with the local unit. Van Why, now a member of the U. S. Marine Drum and Bugle Corps, is home on leave. Ernest Carretta, drum sergeant for the Kadets, described him as "an excellent rudimentary drummer". Van Why also played under John Pyle's direction with the Stroud Union High School Band.

In addition to overall senior drum corps competition tonight, the Kadets will also strive for special drum major and color guard awards.

Next local parade for the unit will be Wednesday when it participates in the twin boroughs' Veterans Day celebration.

Dr. Sills Participates In Meetings

DR. FRANK D. Sills, head of the Dept. of Health and Physical Education at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, conducted a training program for teachers at Lebanon on Tuesday.

Object of the training session was to acquaint the teachers with the physical fitness tests of the American Assn. for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Dr. Sills assisted in the research associated with the development of the tests, and was awarded a certificate of recognition for his work on the project.

On Wednesday, Dr. Sills met with the representatives of other teacher-training institutions in the Commonwealth regarding procurement of a state director of health and physical education.

The Commonwealth is one of the few states which do not have such an official.

Area Council Names Scout Directors

THE Delaware Valley Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, Executive Board has approved leaders for the council's trip to the Jamboree and the Philmont Scout Ranch in the summer of 1960 on the recommendation of T. K. O'Sullivan, council chairman.

The following persons were approved: Bernard Varvel, Canadensis, expedition director; Paul Bottiger, Phillipsburg, regional staff; Alex Bartolacci, Bangor, regional staff; and William Miller of Wilson Borough, regional staff.

Jack Raymond of Stroudsburg, Neil Ruddy of Belfast and Charles Scofield of Easton, were selected as Scoutmasters for the three troops. Assistant Scoutmasters will be John H. Richards and J. Donald Smith of Stroudsburg; Tony Curcio of Phillipsburg; George Heitzman of Easton and Carl Brown of Easton.

Substitute Chosen

Herbert Nonnemacher of Stroudsburg will serve as a substitute for Jack Raymond when he returns between the Jamboree and Philmont of the trip. Marcus Yeckel of Nazareth will be an alternate as Carl Hamblin of Mount Pocono and Fred Druse of Easton.

Karl J. Miller reported that 25 persons have registered for the Region III Conference being held at the Inn, Buck Hill Falls, this week. Serving on the committee for this conference are Karl J. Miller, Cecil F. Dawson and William S. Wyckoff, members of the local Scout Board, and Mrs. Harry J. Schwartz, Mrs. Elmer H. Morgan and wives of members of the board.

Parke Kunkle, chairman of the Pocono District reported that a Scout Unit for mentally retarded children will be organized in Monroe County this Fall.

The board approved the selection of a corporate trustee and authorized the proper officers to sign agreement of trust. This will make a reality a trust fund for the local Boy Scout Council, a project which has been under way for over six months.
